In the many roles of your life it was clear to us that you belonged to Christ.

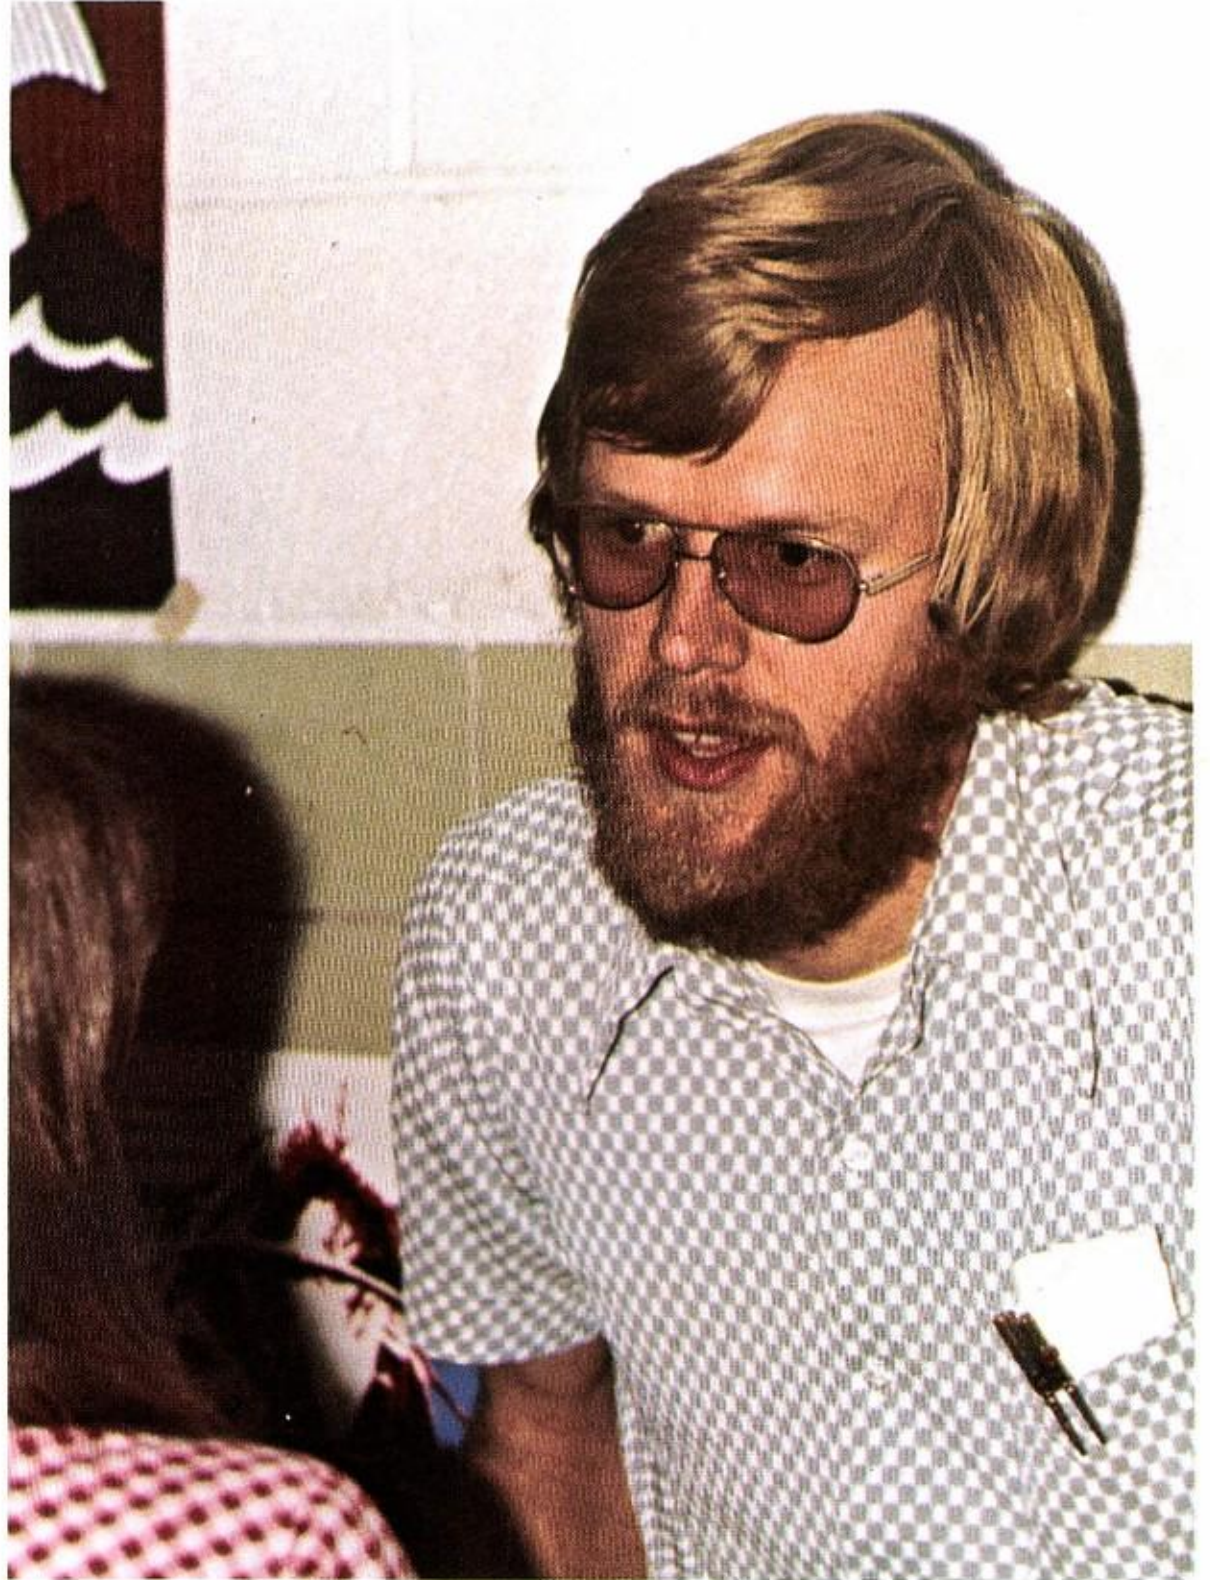

As a coach, you urged your team to endure to the end, because success is not always victory.

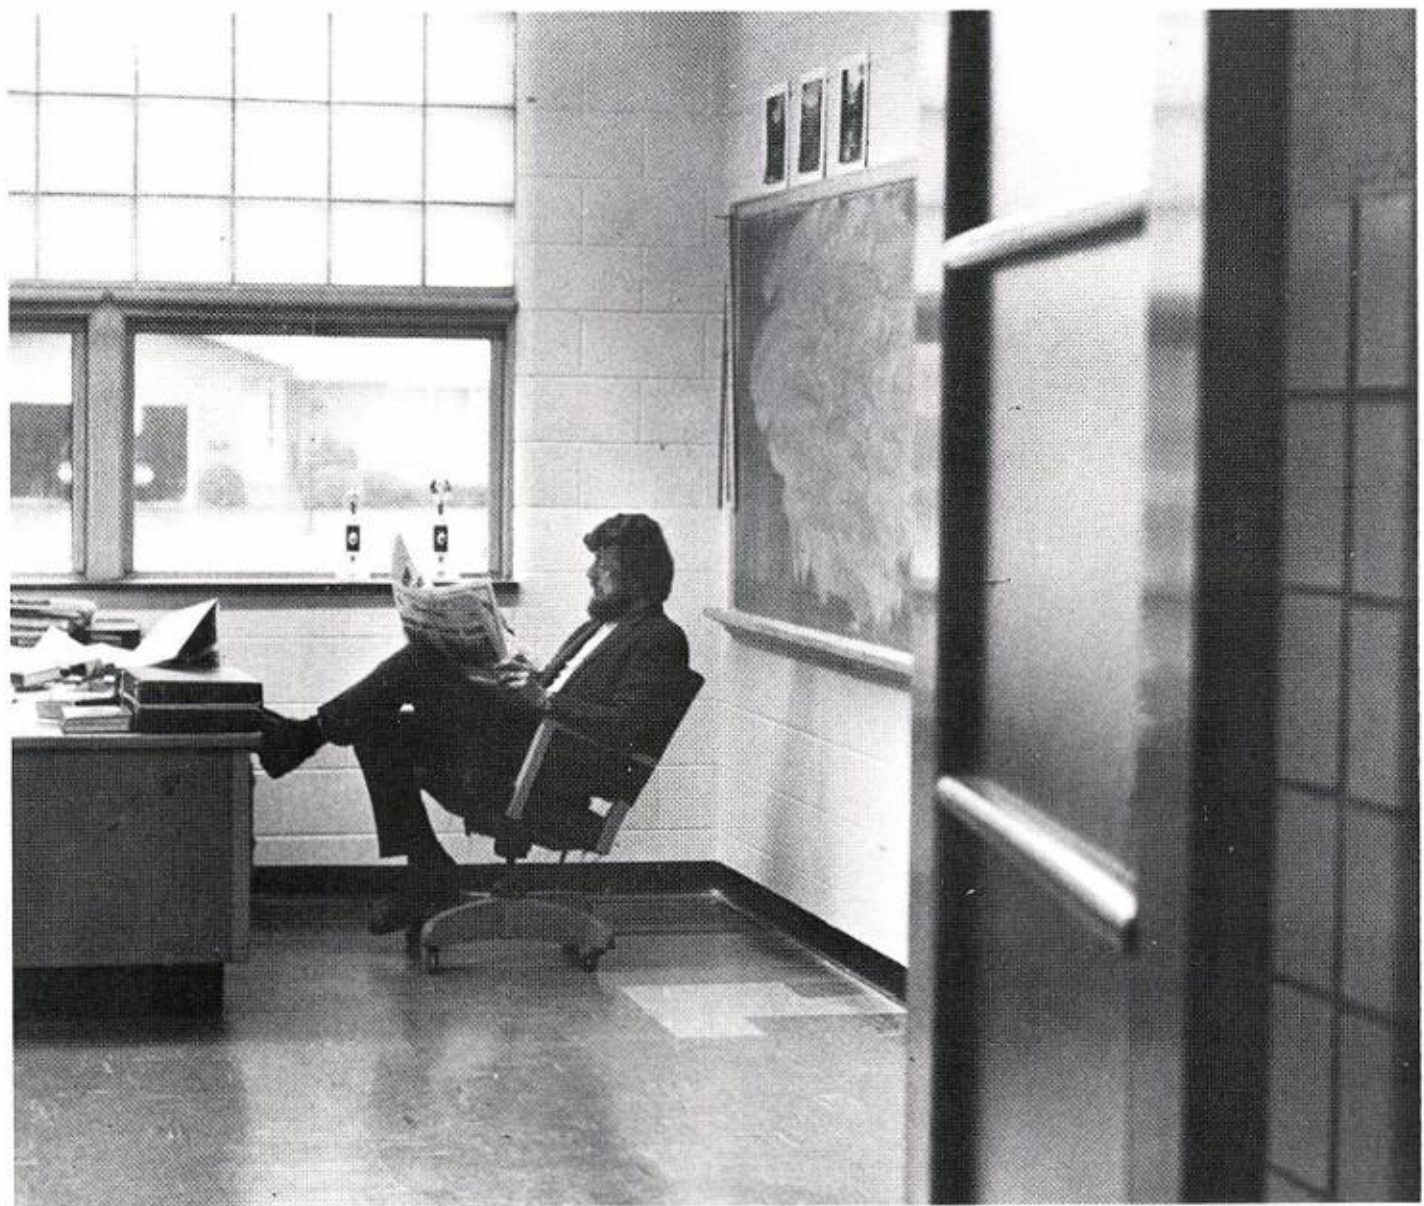

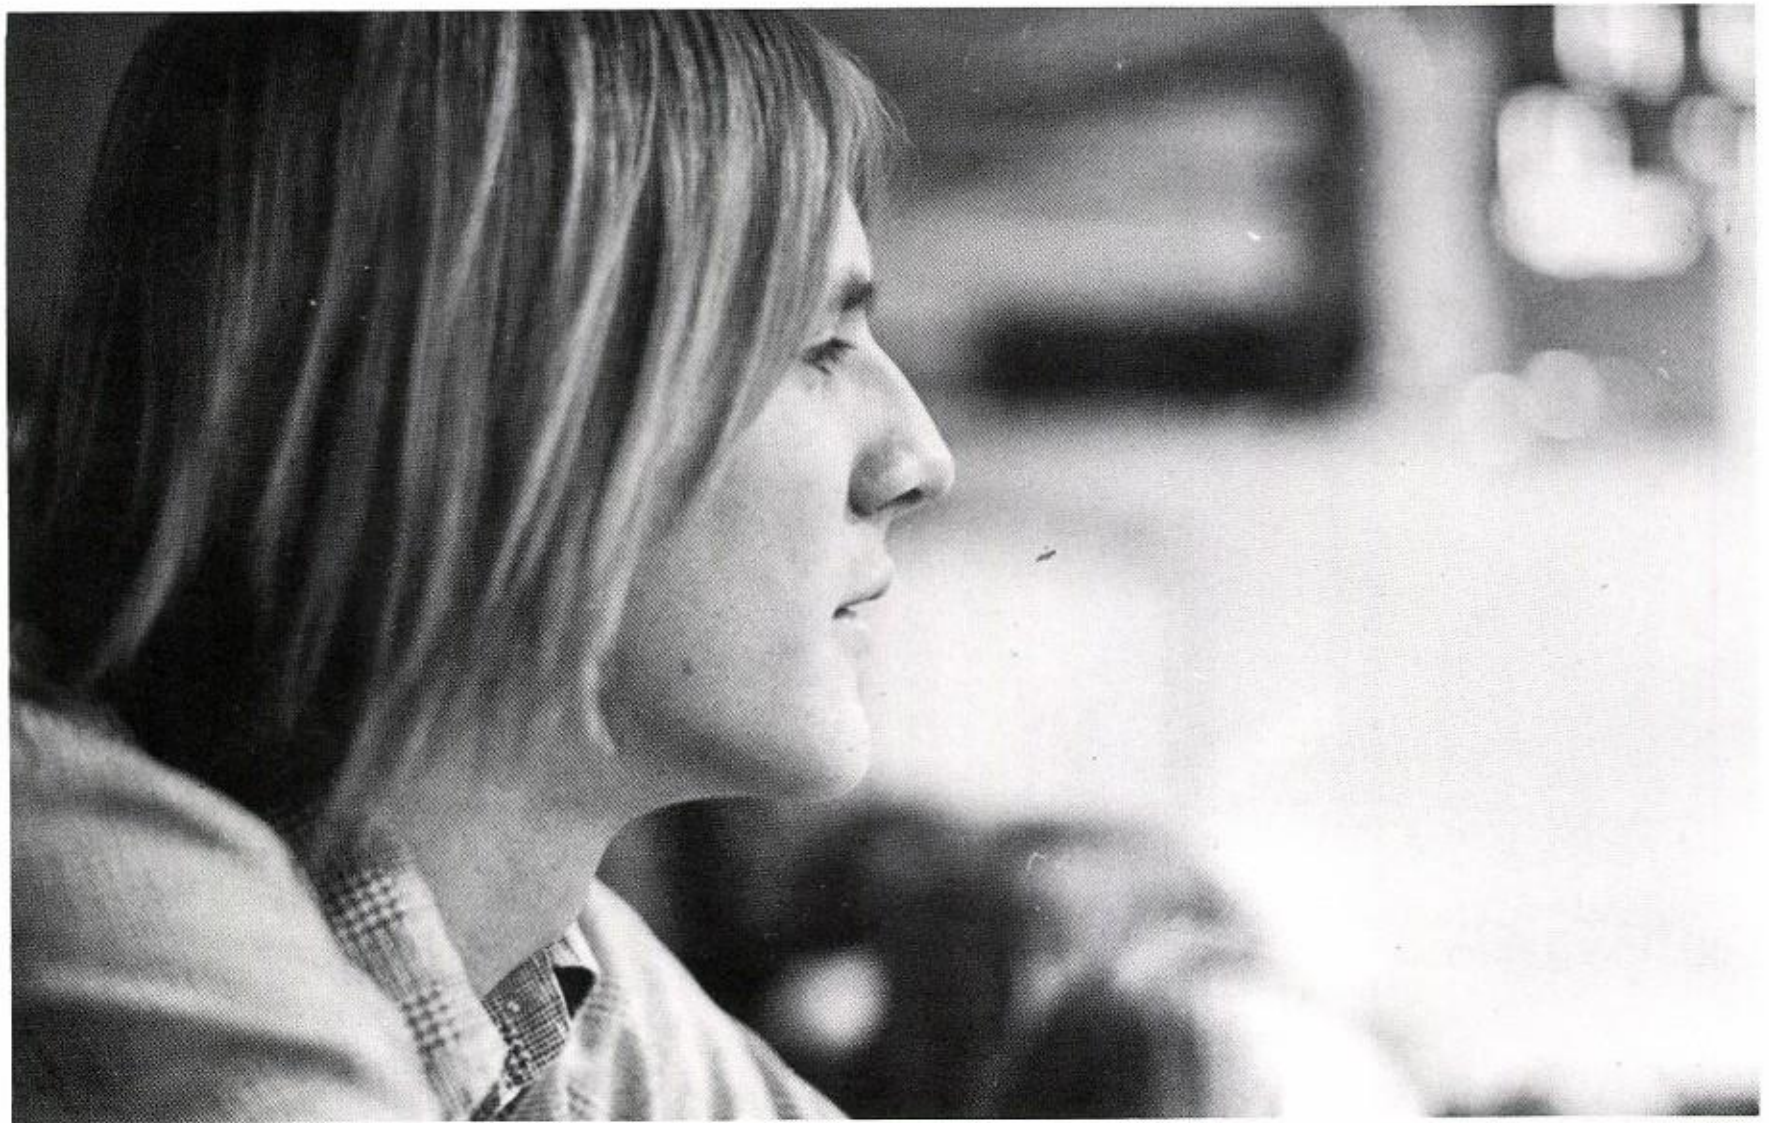

As a teacher and friend, you challenged us to consider new ideas with the old, because familiarity doesn't always mean right.

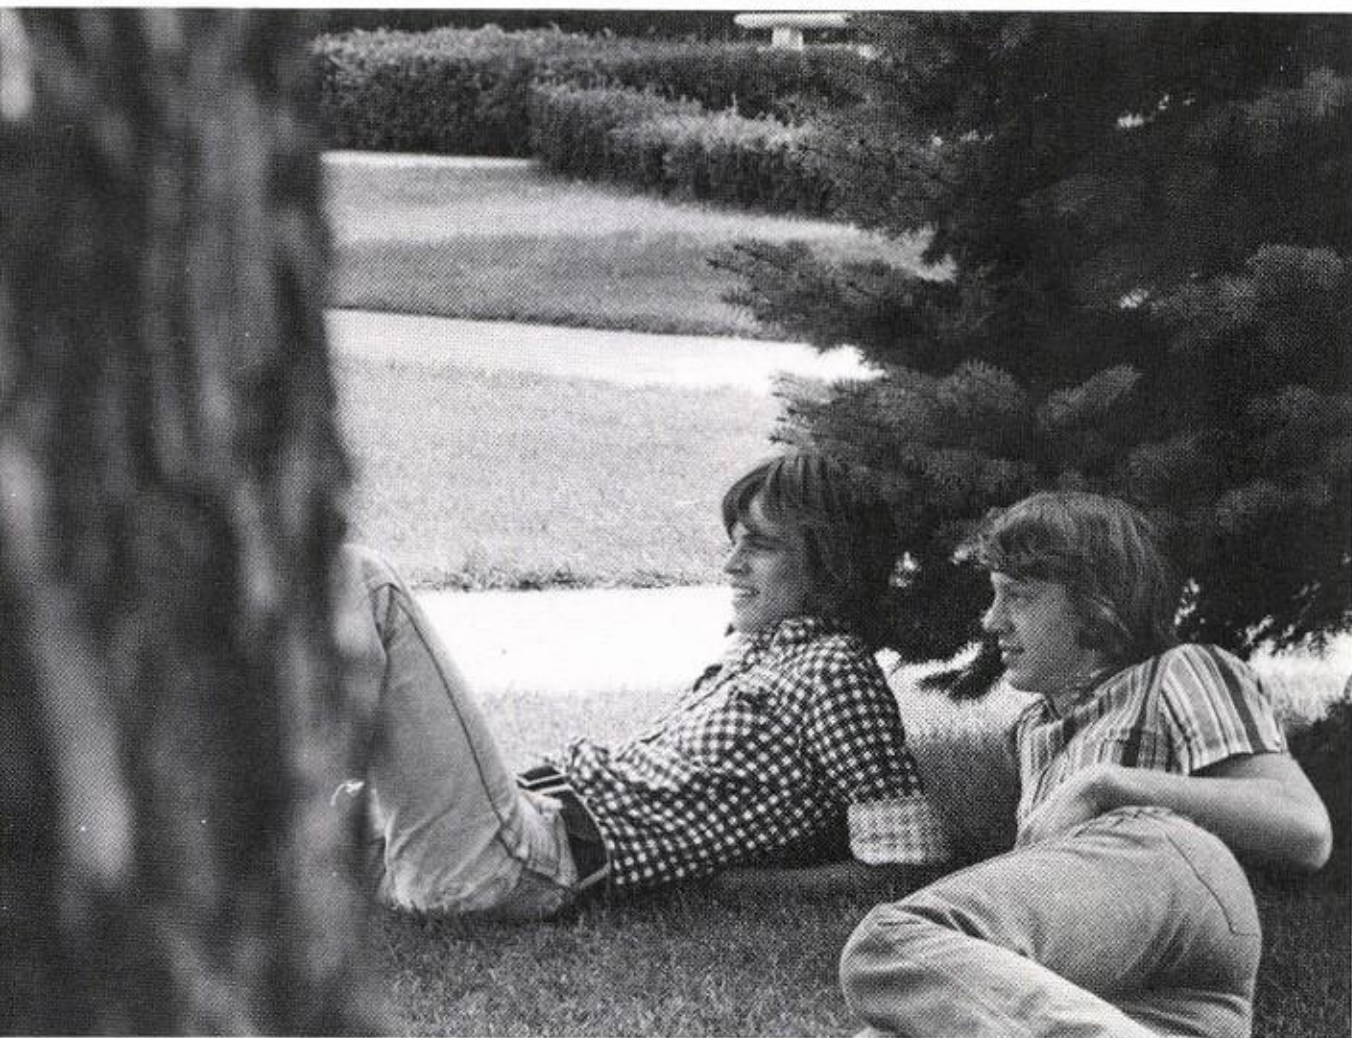

You were able to discover the different personalities in a class, just as you were able to discover a Christ figure in every movie you saw.

You gave yourself — and that is why we give this book to you, Mr. Fondse.

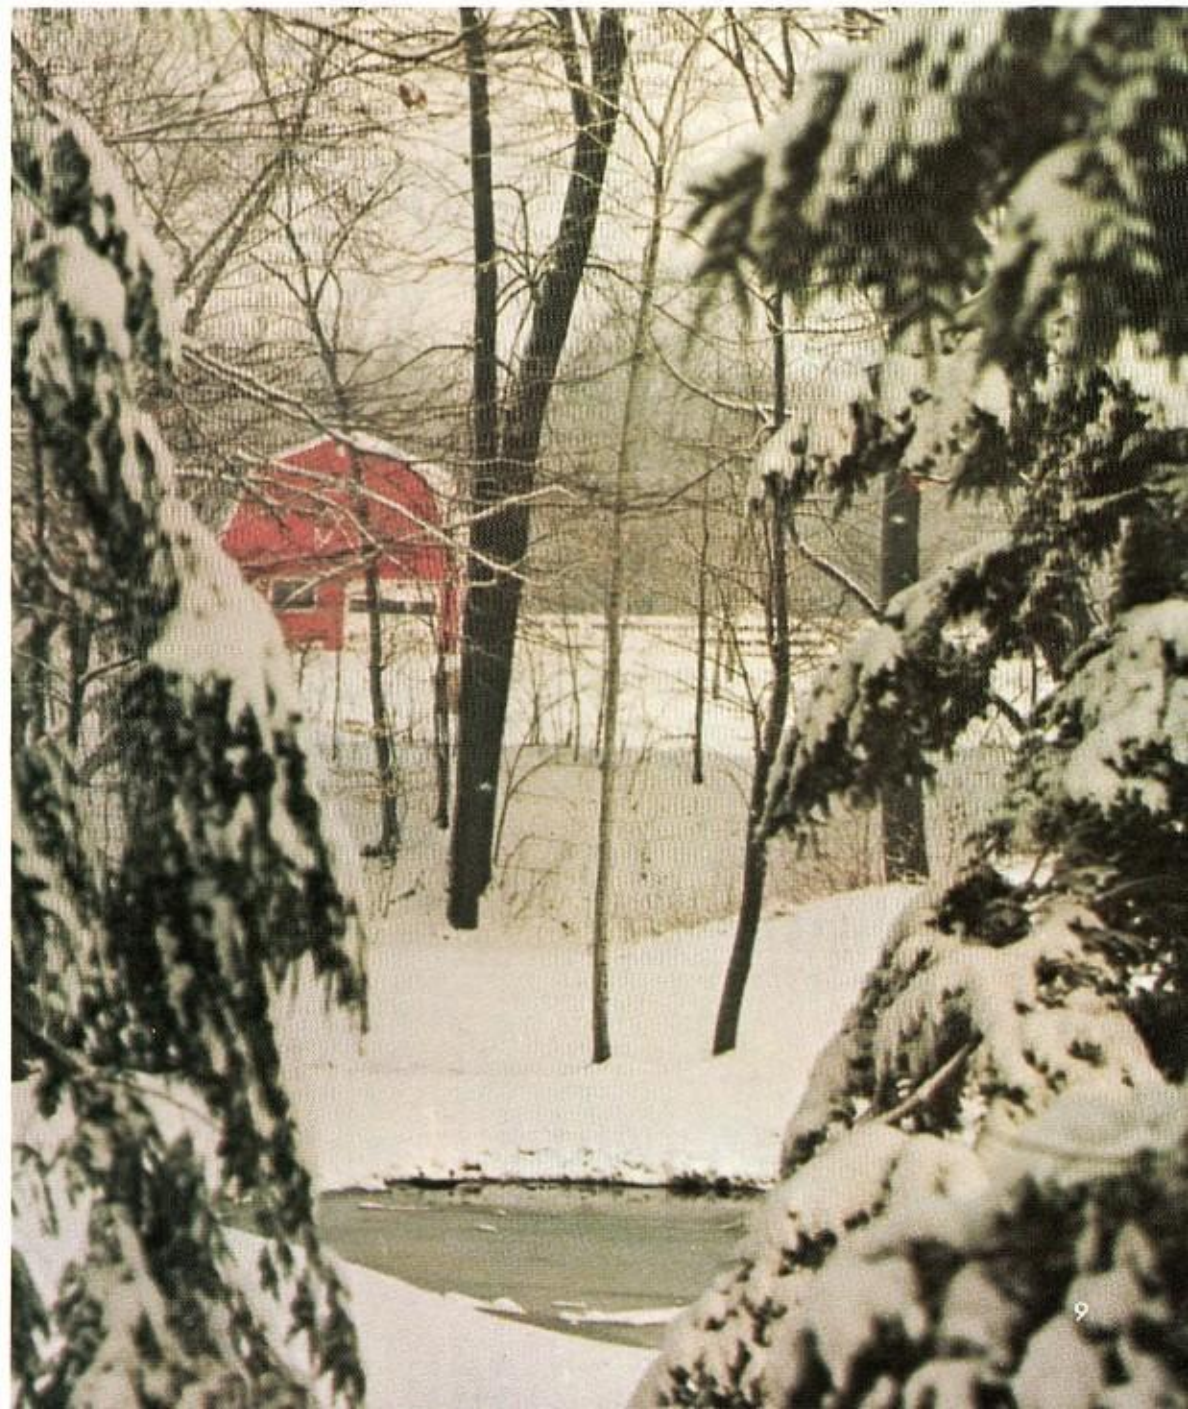

*Digging deep,
the old things form the core of our being.*

*Never noticing the things we see every day,
they silently shape us.*

*Our lives are changed.
Our God who loves,
Our teachers who understand,
Our friends who care,
All pushing us down
the right road.*

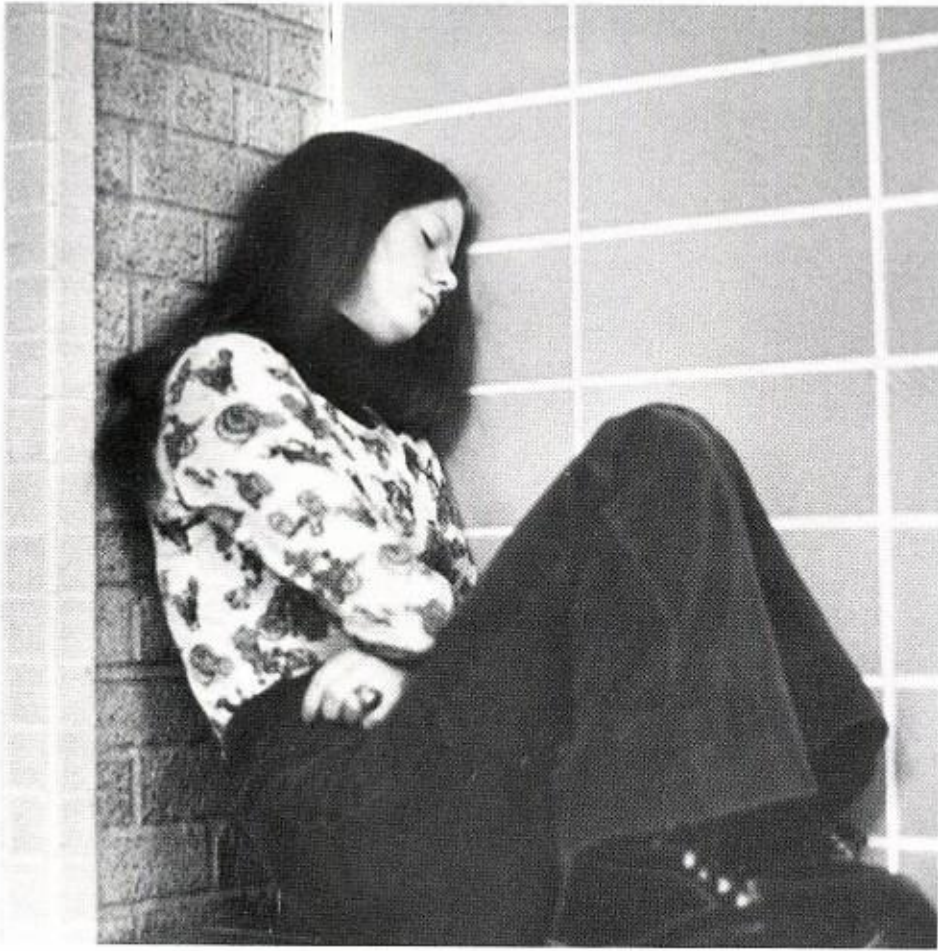

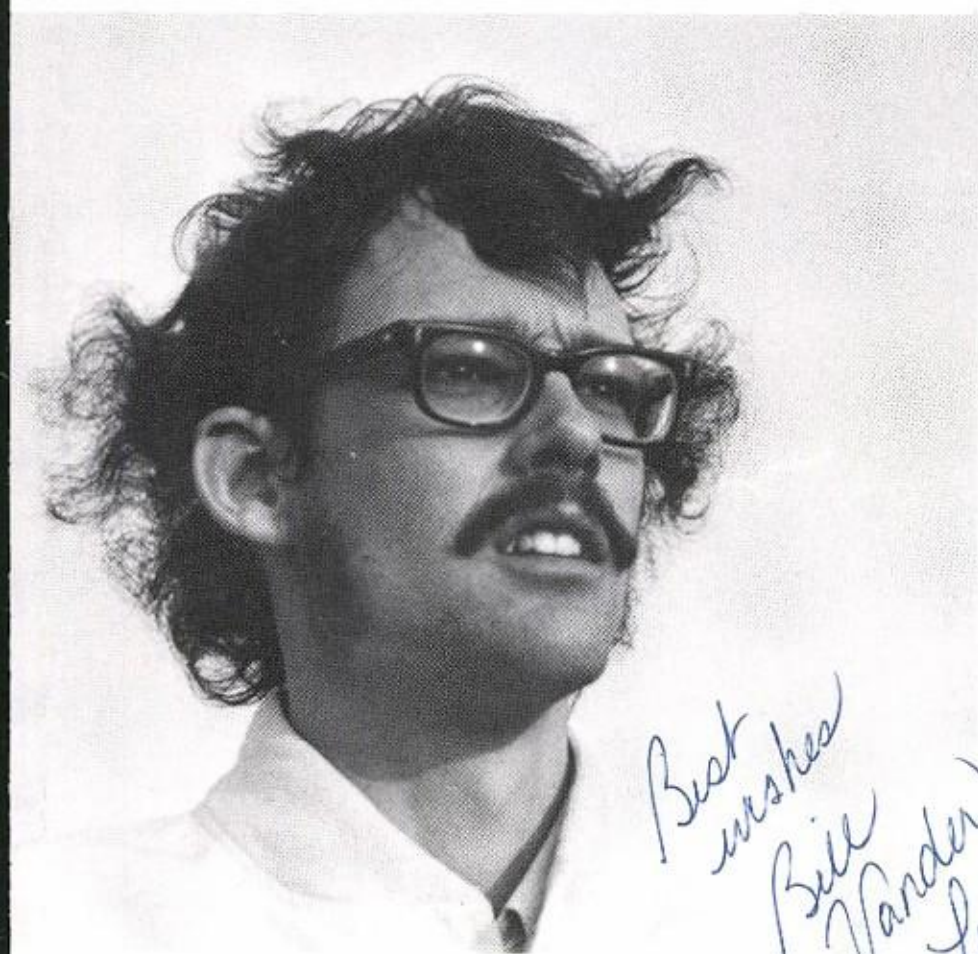

*Two roads diverged in a wood, and I
I took the one less travelled by and that has made all the difference.*

Robert Frost

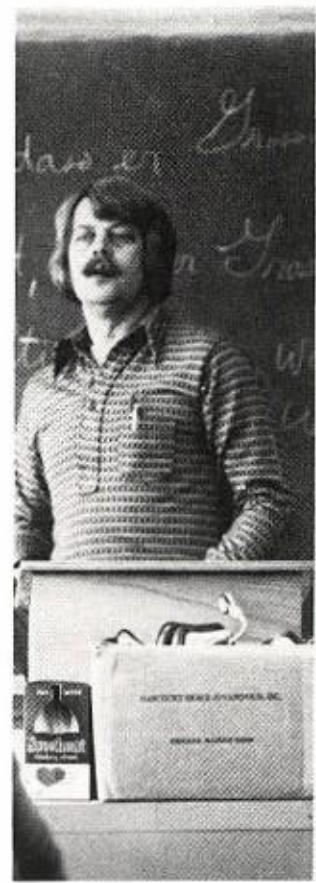

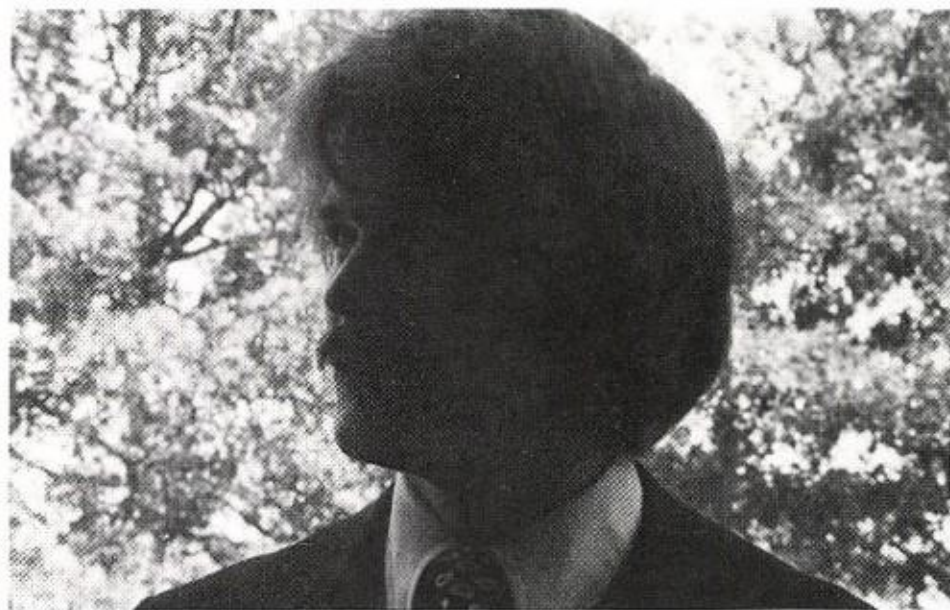

Best wishes

Each Morning Begins with God

Chapel has begun and so another day at Unity. This year several interesting people and groups such as Hansi, author of THE GIRL WHO LOVED THE SWASTIKA, and "Found Free" shared their relationship to God as students and teachers worshipped together.

[c]

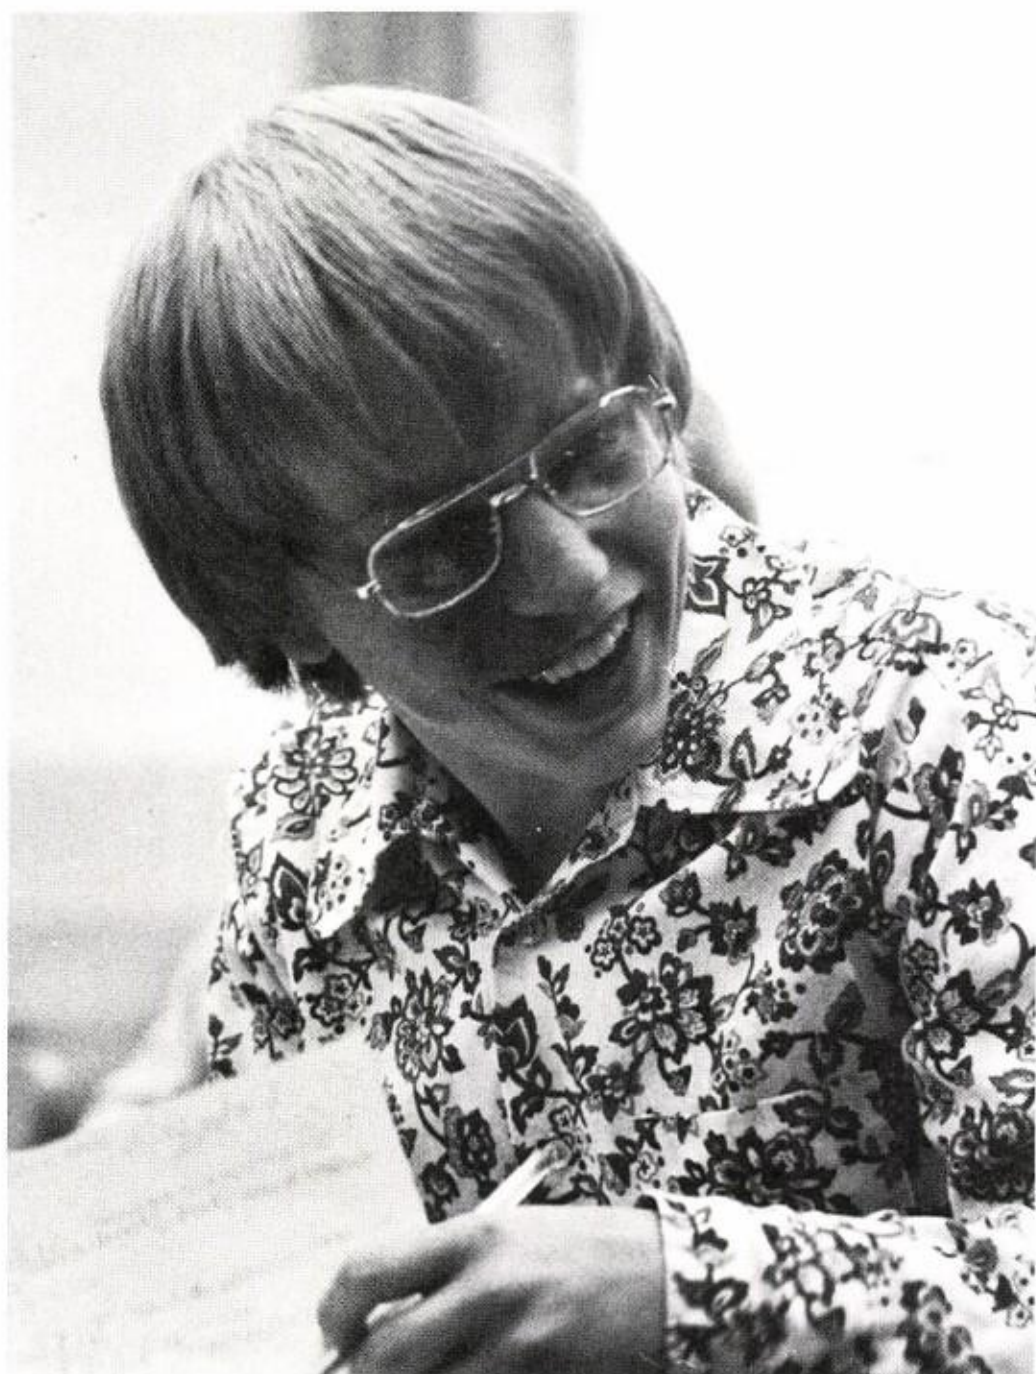

[d]

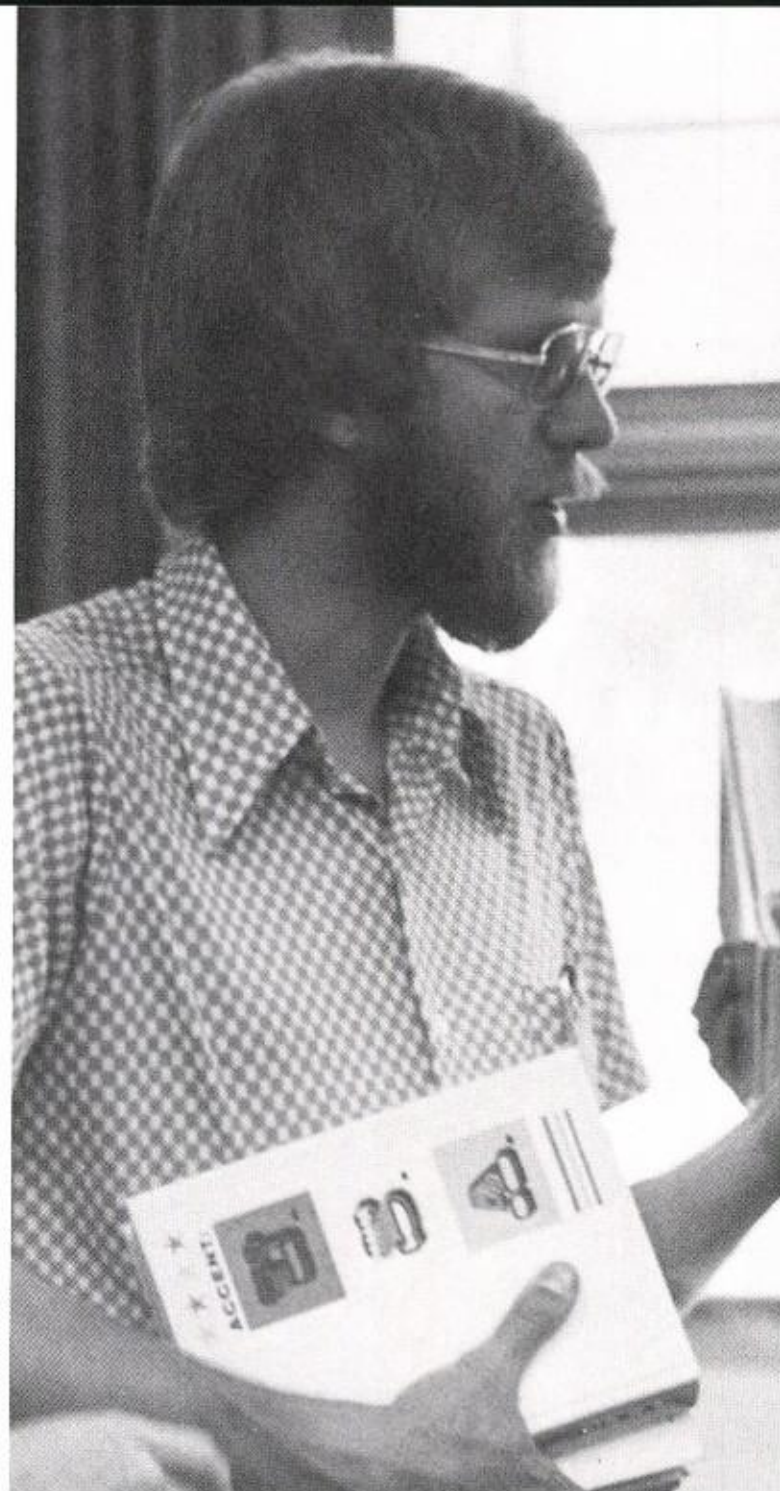

[e]

a) A Dordt College choir member sings a solo for a chapel. b) Jim Bolden sings about the One Way. c) Hansi tells of her life under the Swastika. d) Le Tourneau singers from Texas sing for a chapel. e) Chapel organists — Mr. Ball, Kathy Van Klompenberg, Carol Dams.

English Allows a Wide Range of Interests

From Shakespeare to e.e. cummings, Canterbury Tales to the love story of Cupid and Psyche,
From viewing Charlie Chaplin to starring
in a play yourself,
Or reading from Ernest Hemmingway to writing your own prose —

the choice is yours.

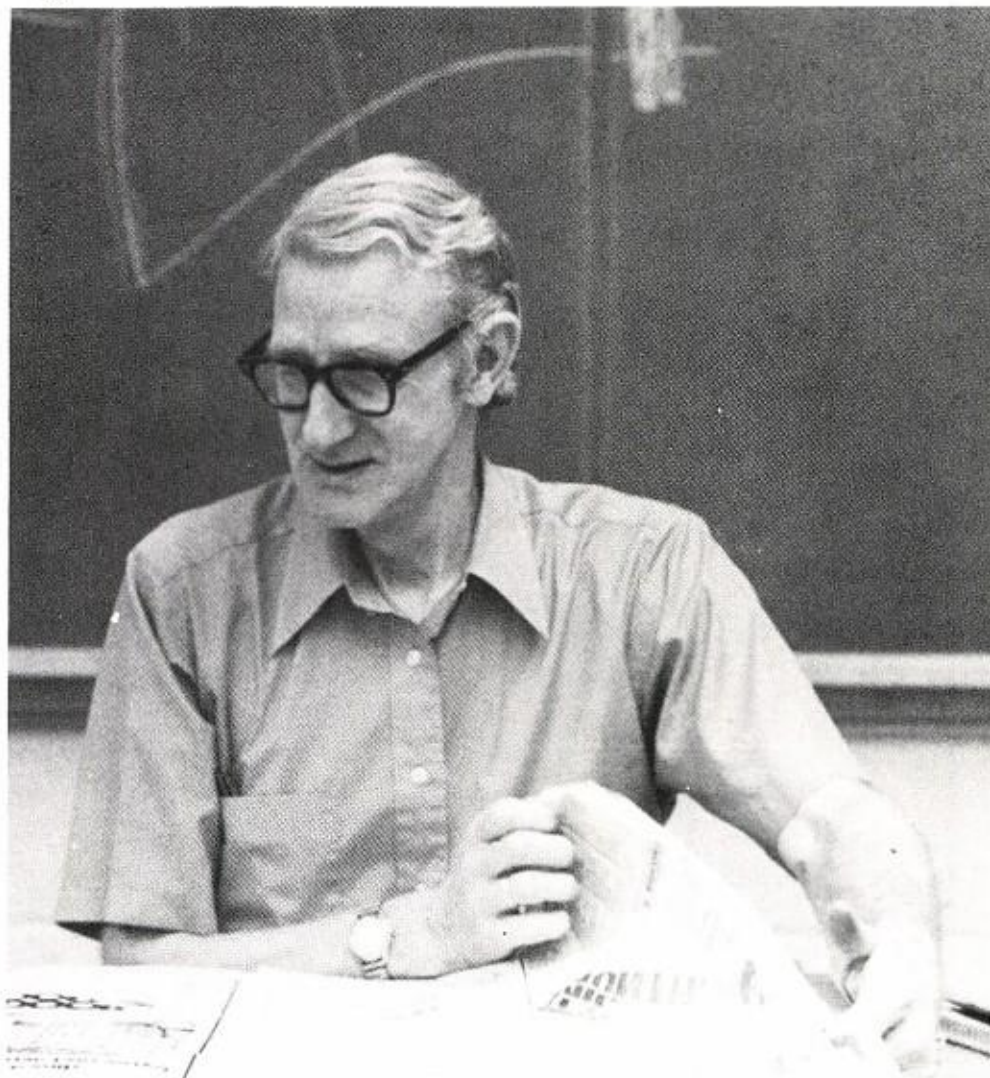

[d]

a) Mr. Fondse — English. b) John Schout seeks inspiration for his journal. c) Mr. Brouwer — English, Speech. d) Creative writing students experience blindness. e) Mr. Christians — English. f) Mr. Bierma: English.

[f]

Sophomores Develop New Speaking Habits

Nervousness changing into self-confidence makes boring speeches become fascinating, as smooth eloquence replaces the initial stuttering and stammering. This is the hope of Mrs. Lanninga and Mr. Brower as they try to mold giggling sophomores into competent speakers.

Art Promotes the Creative Mind

After years of coloring inside someone else's lines, art students are encouraged to forsake tradition, free their minds, and honestly express themselves. Various materials, stretching from traditional paper and crayon to any piece of junk the mind can contrive are put to use. The end result: art.

a) Diane Moll evaluates a fellow classmate's speech. b) Mrs. Lanninga — Speech, English. c) Kathy Ver Kaik and Suzanne Schuur discuss their topic. d) Creativity transforms junk into art. e) Rick Lynema is easily distracted from Art Class. f) Mr. Kamminga — Art.

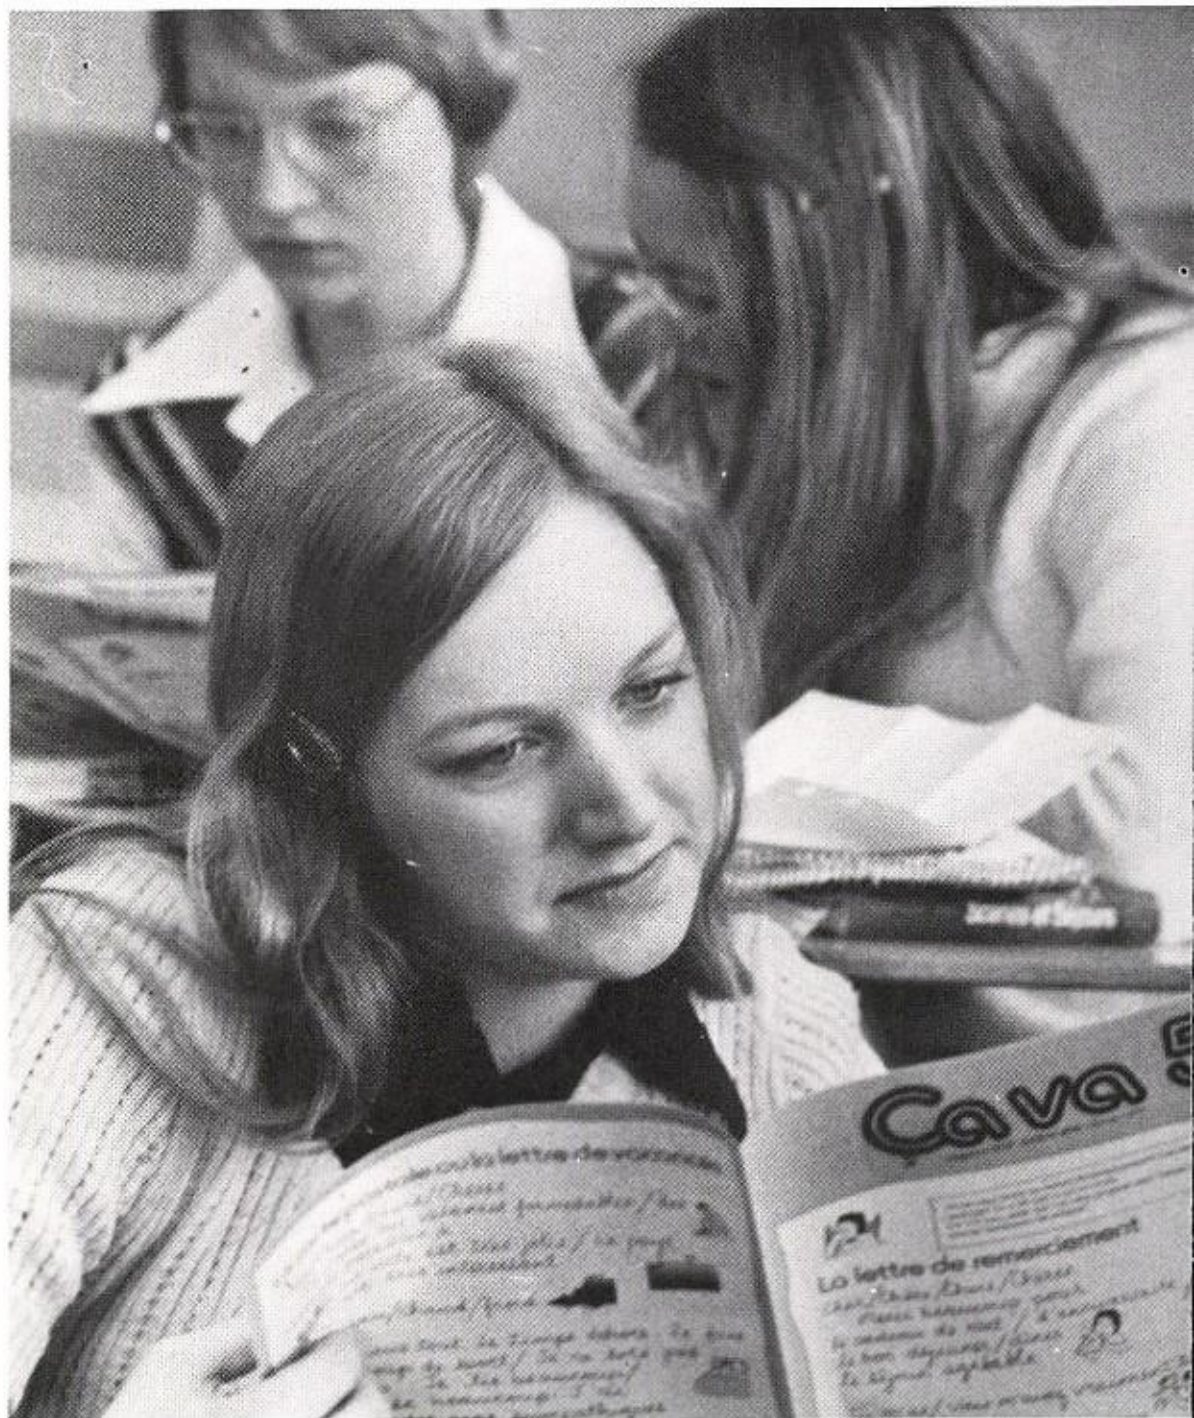

a) Ken Visser translates a Latin paragraph. b) Mrs. Schrotenboer — Latin I and II, French I and II, German I. c) Char Jeurink reads a French magazine. d) Brian Van Tubergan converses in French. e) Linda Postma reads over her translation. f) Herr Rusticus — German I, II, and III.

Languages Give Insight Into New Lifestyles

The need for a foreign language dept. at Unity may at first glance seem unnecessary in the middle of America. But, through foreign languages, students are made more aware of people in different cultures and thus learn more about themselves.

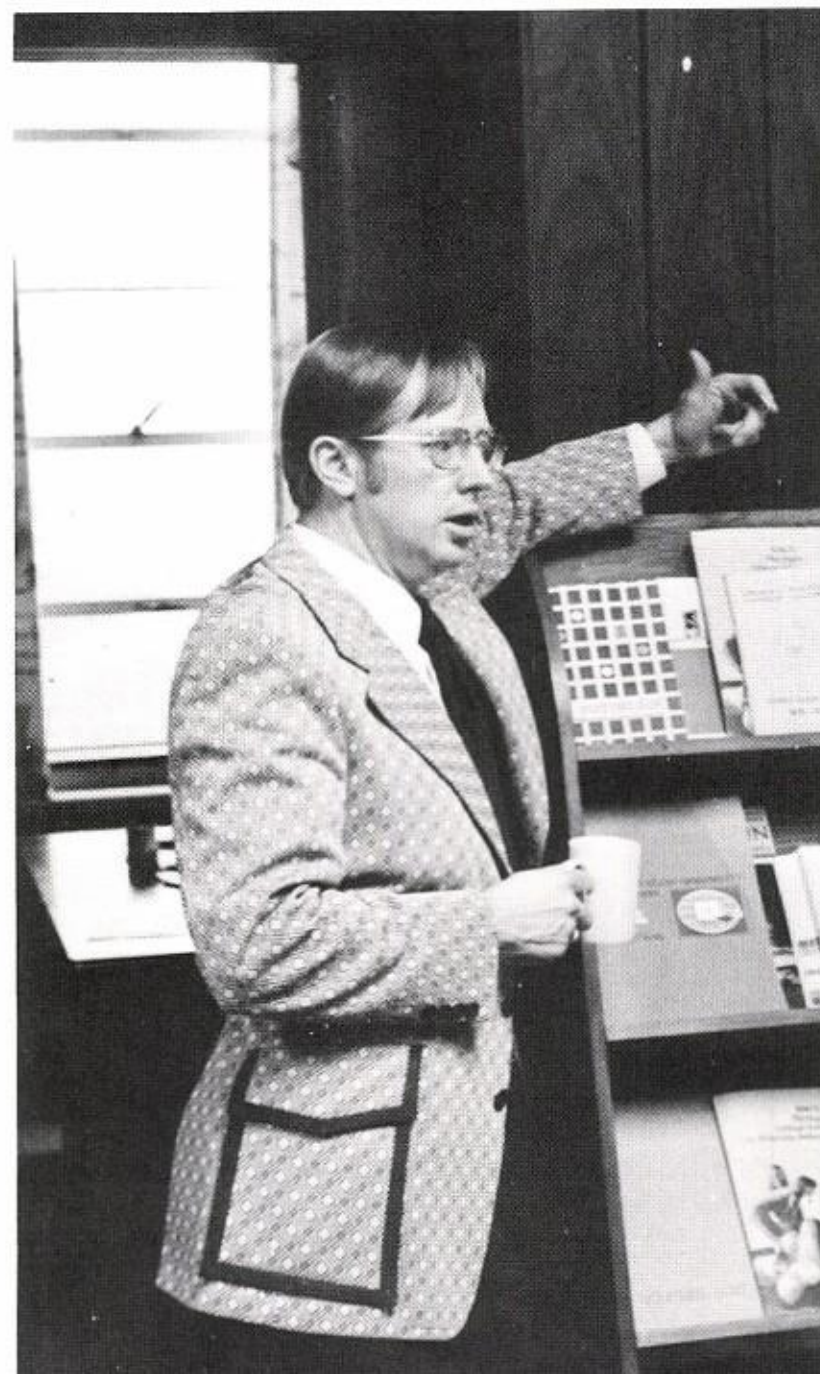

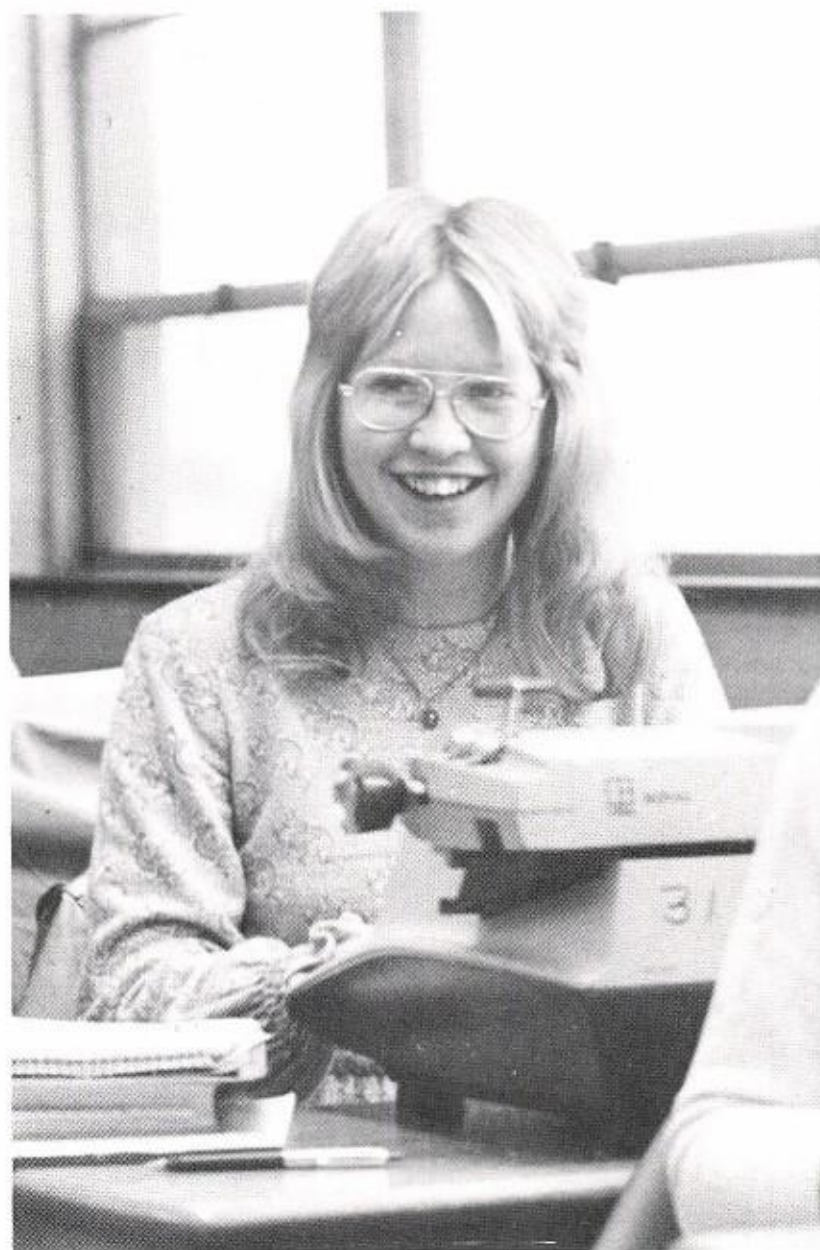

[f]

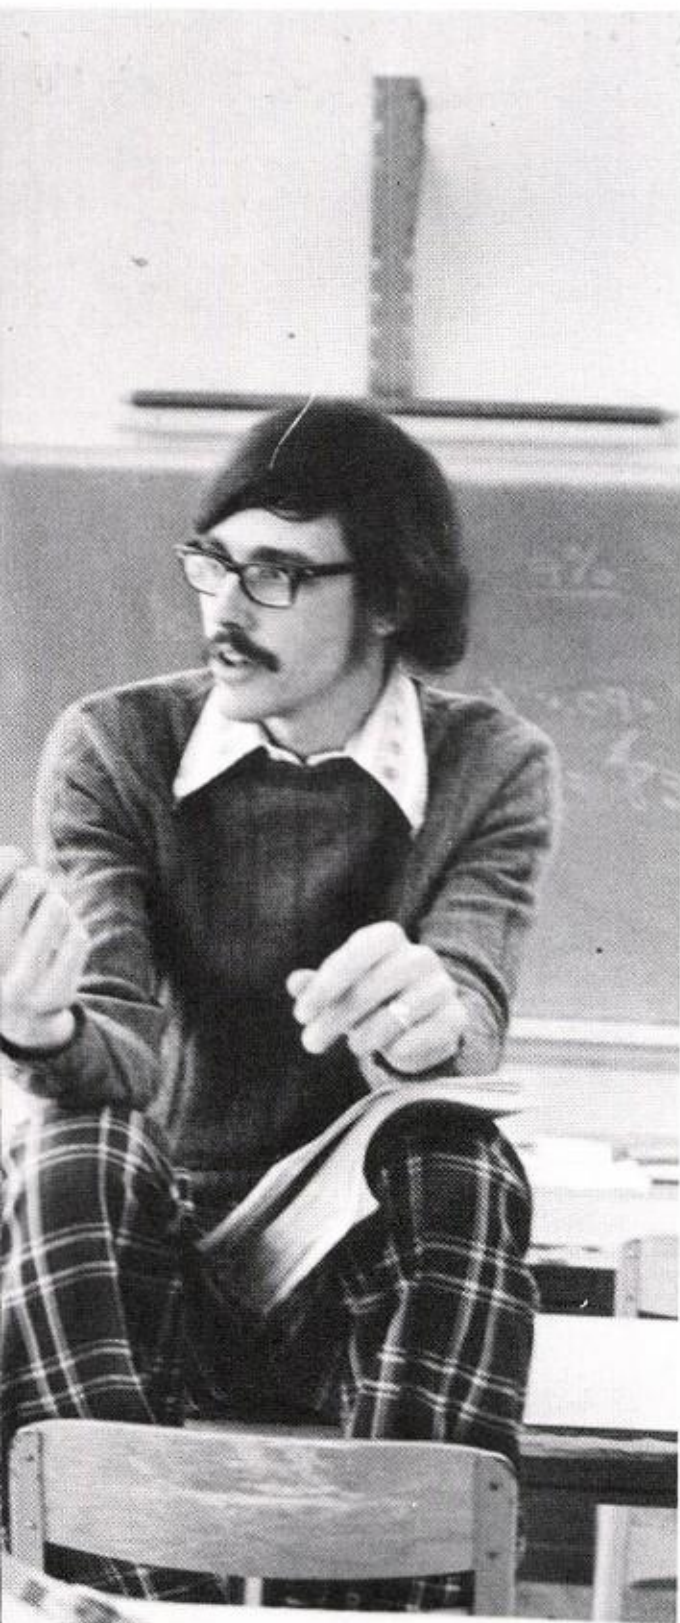

Students Invade the World of Business

Training future accountants, secretaries, clerks, and receptionists is the goal of our business program. But, if none of these beckons, certainly a lesson in filing income tax is useful, and doubtless, bits of knowledge such as how to spend money wisely, type adequately, and take notes rapidly are helpful and appreciated preparations for life outside of Unity.

[d]

[e]

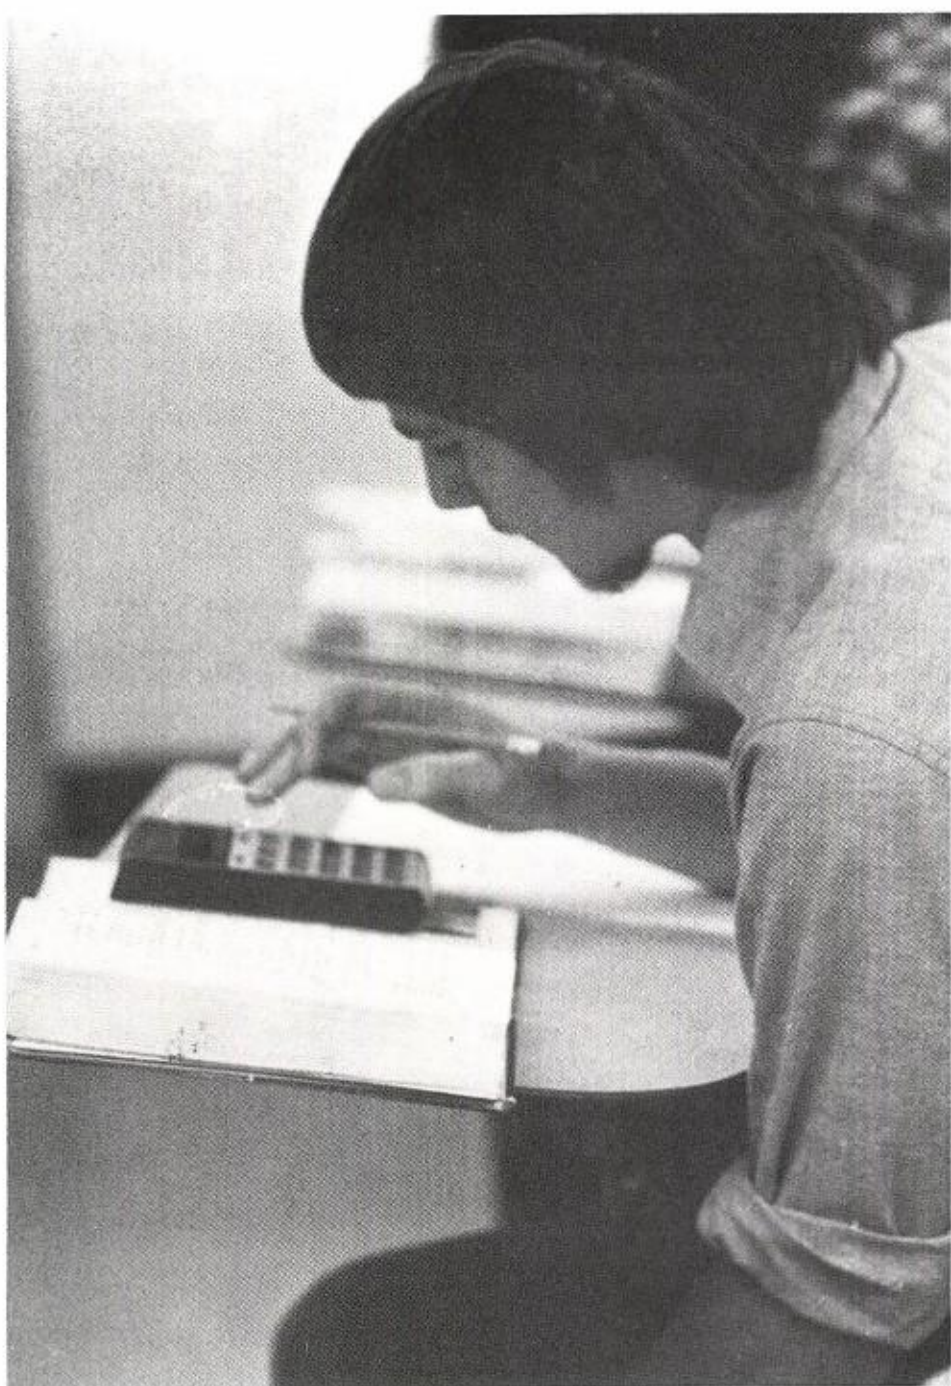

[f]

a) Pat Key enjoys Typing class. b) Mr. Vanden Berg: Typing I, Typing II. c) Mr. Ten Harmsel: Shorthand, Transcription. d) Mr. Vander Lugt: Accounting I, Economics. e) Mr. Postma: Typing I, Accounting I, Accounting II. f) Pete Bloomendaal struggles through his Accounting assignment.

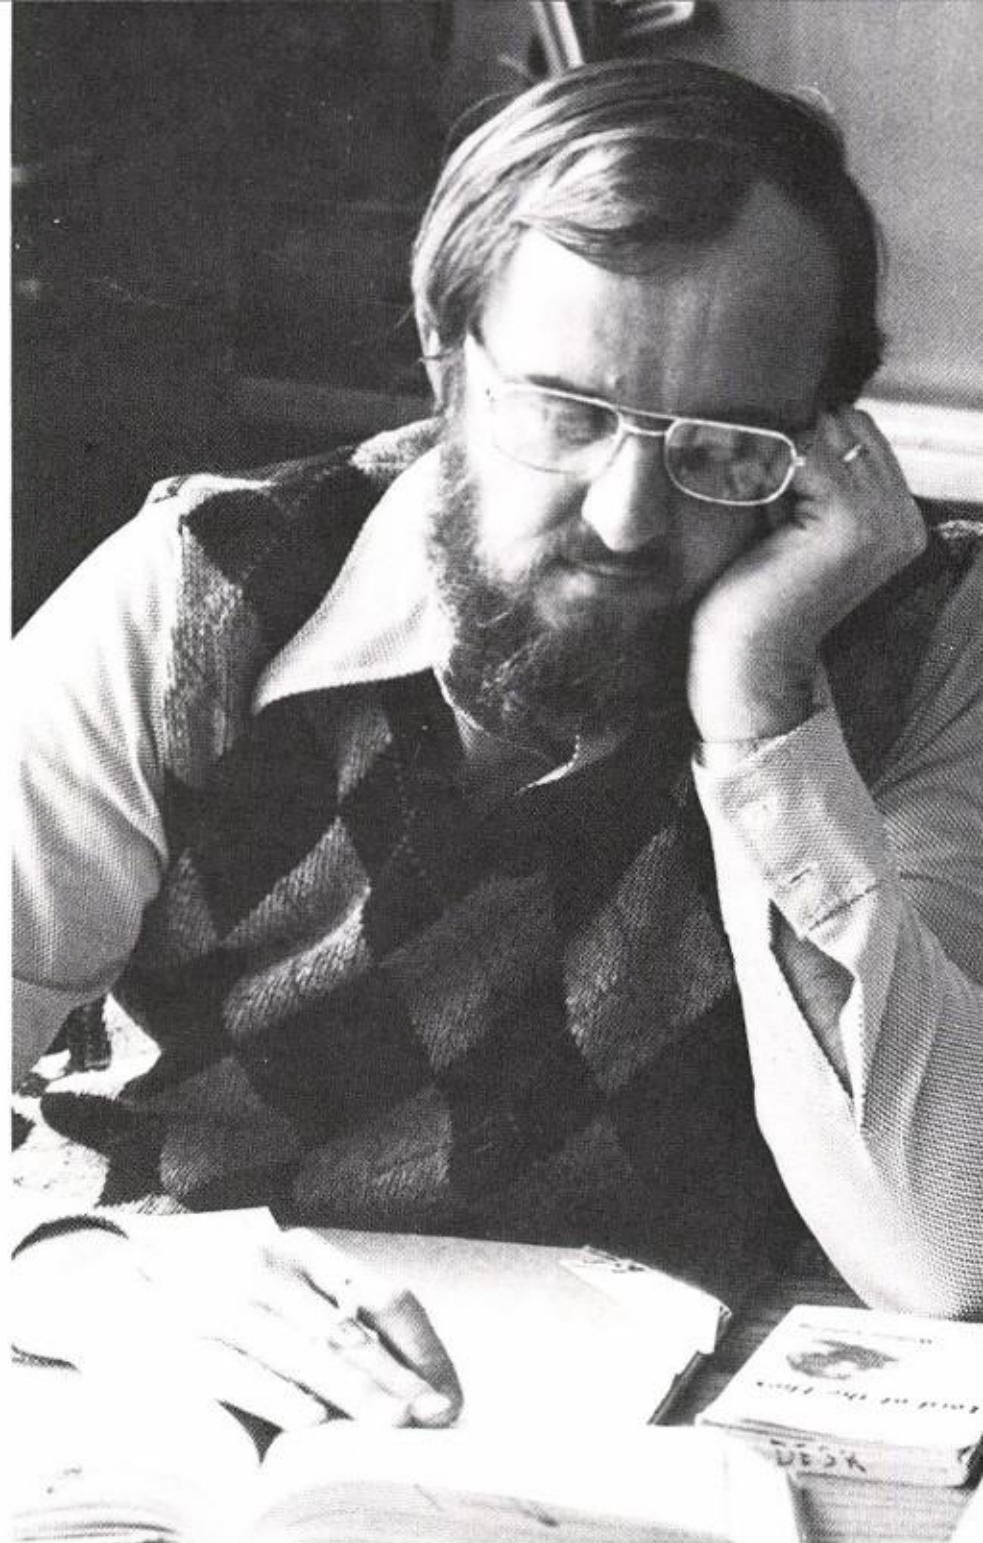

The Dawning of Pythagoras

Numbers, letters, points, sets, all seem the same. Then along comes a math teacher to straighten them into a line and separate them and relate them and give them a function. Math class continues.

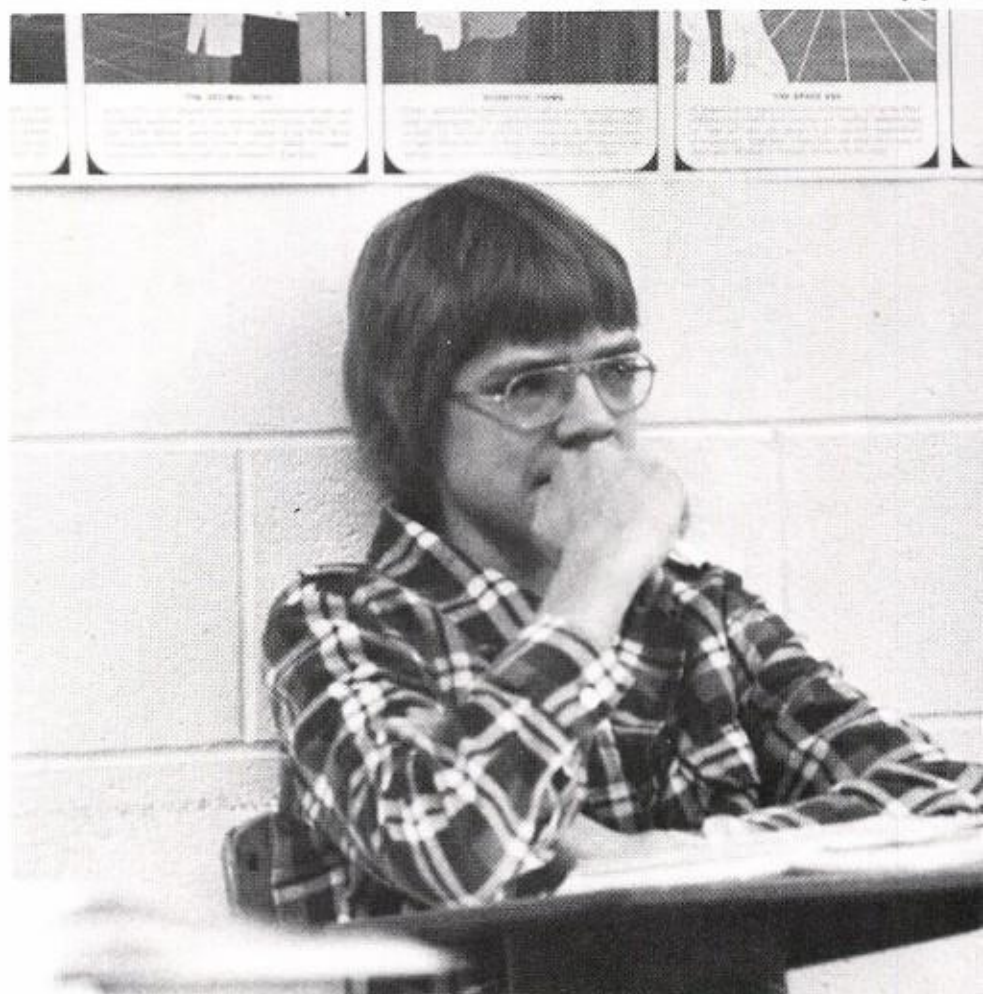

[b]

a) Mr. Jasperse — Algebra II, English. b) Jim Feenstra works out his math problem with a calculator. c) Gary Katerberg puzzles over Algebra.

[c]

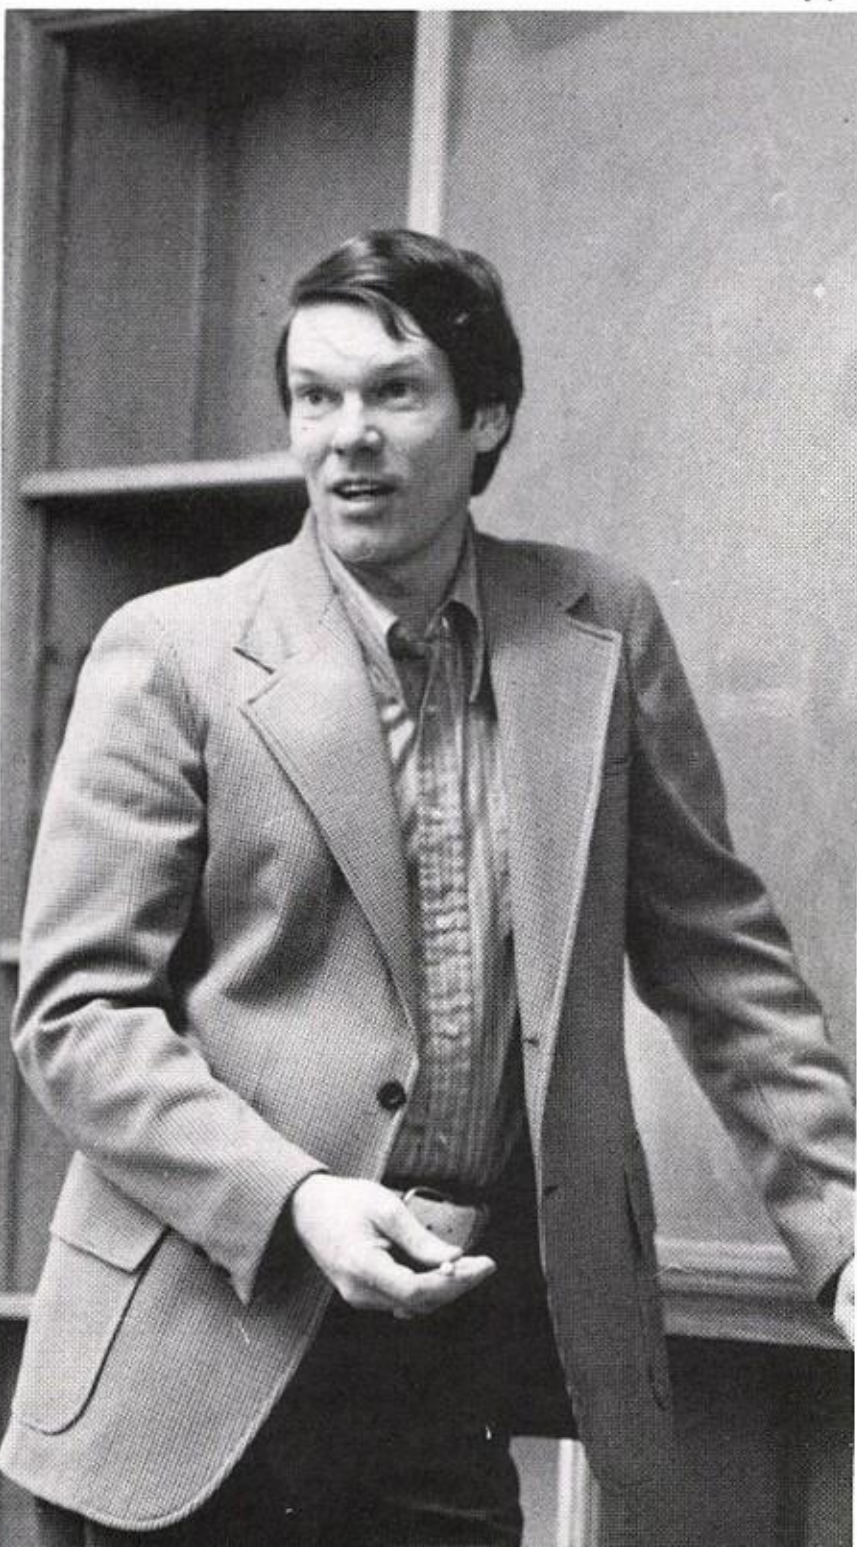

[a]

[b]

[c]

a) The Senior Math class "male chauvinist pigs" perform their "Porky Pig" theme song. b) Mr. Dornbush — Geometry, General Math, Refresher Math. c) Mr. Flietstra — Geometry, Senior Math, Senior History.

[c]

[b]

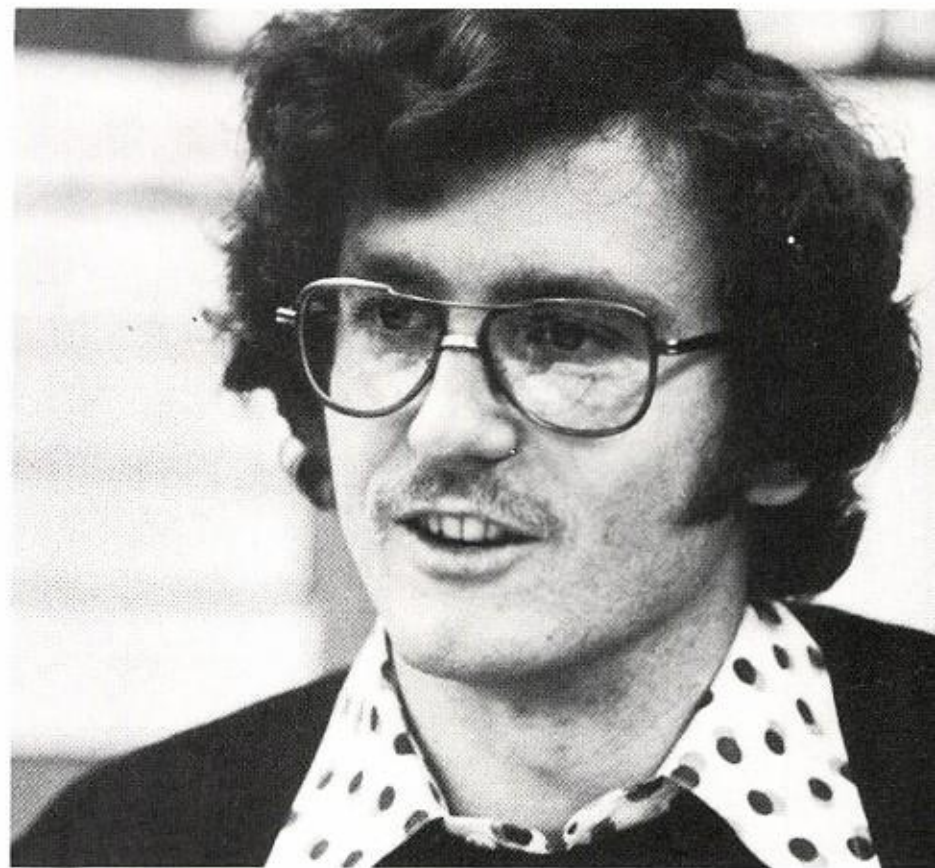

a) The microscope offers a closer look. b) Mr. Hulst — Sophomore and Senior Biology. c) Kim Hansen measures yeast growth. d) Sophomore biologists learn lab techniques. e) Mr. Reiffer — Senior Biology.

"The World and All That in Them Lies"

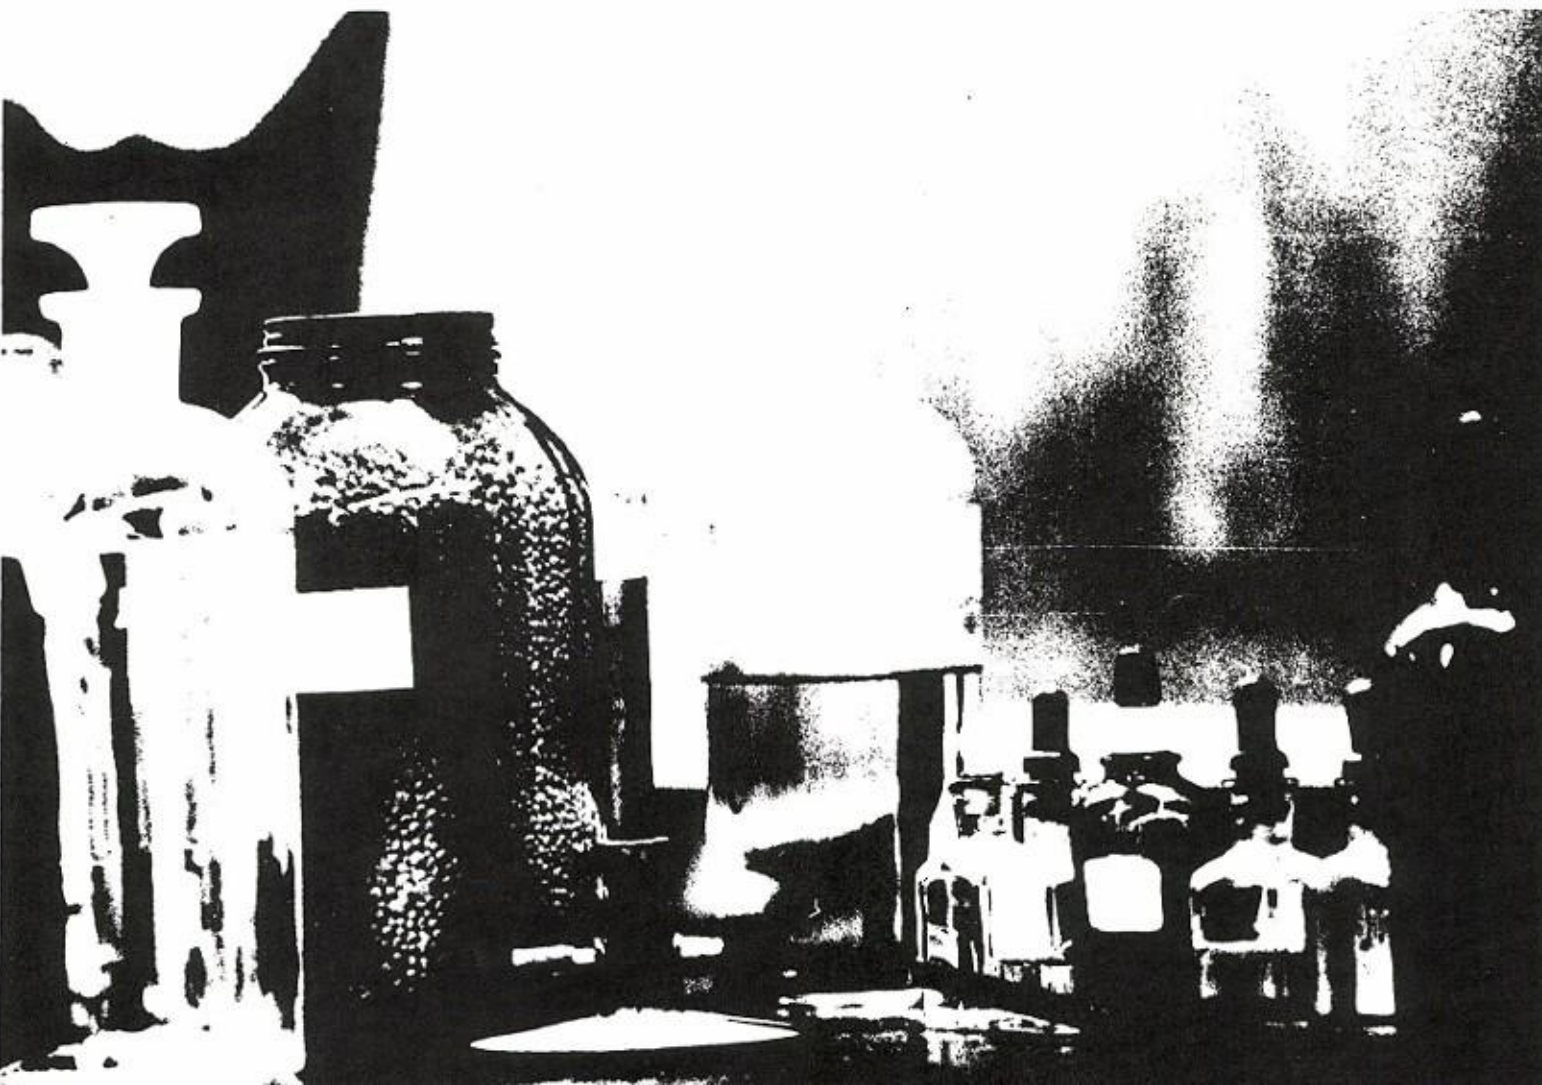

While sophomore biologists learn how to break their first test tube, the seniors are perfecting this skill to an art so that, unexpectedly, bottles of rotten milk explode during another class. Along with the mischief, learning takes place, as students invade the living world around them.

[e]

a) Mr. Huizenga — Earth Science, Electronics, Church History. b) The complicated set confuses Unity Students. c) Bryan Doornbos observes the patterns on an oscilloscope.

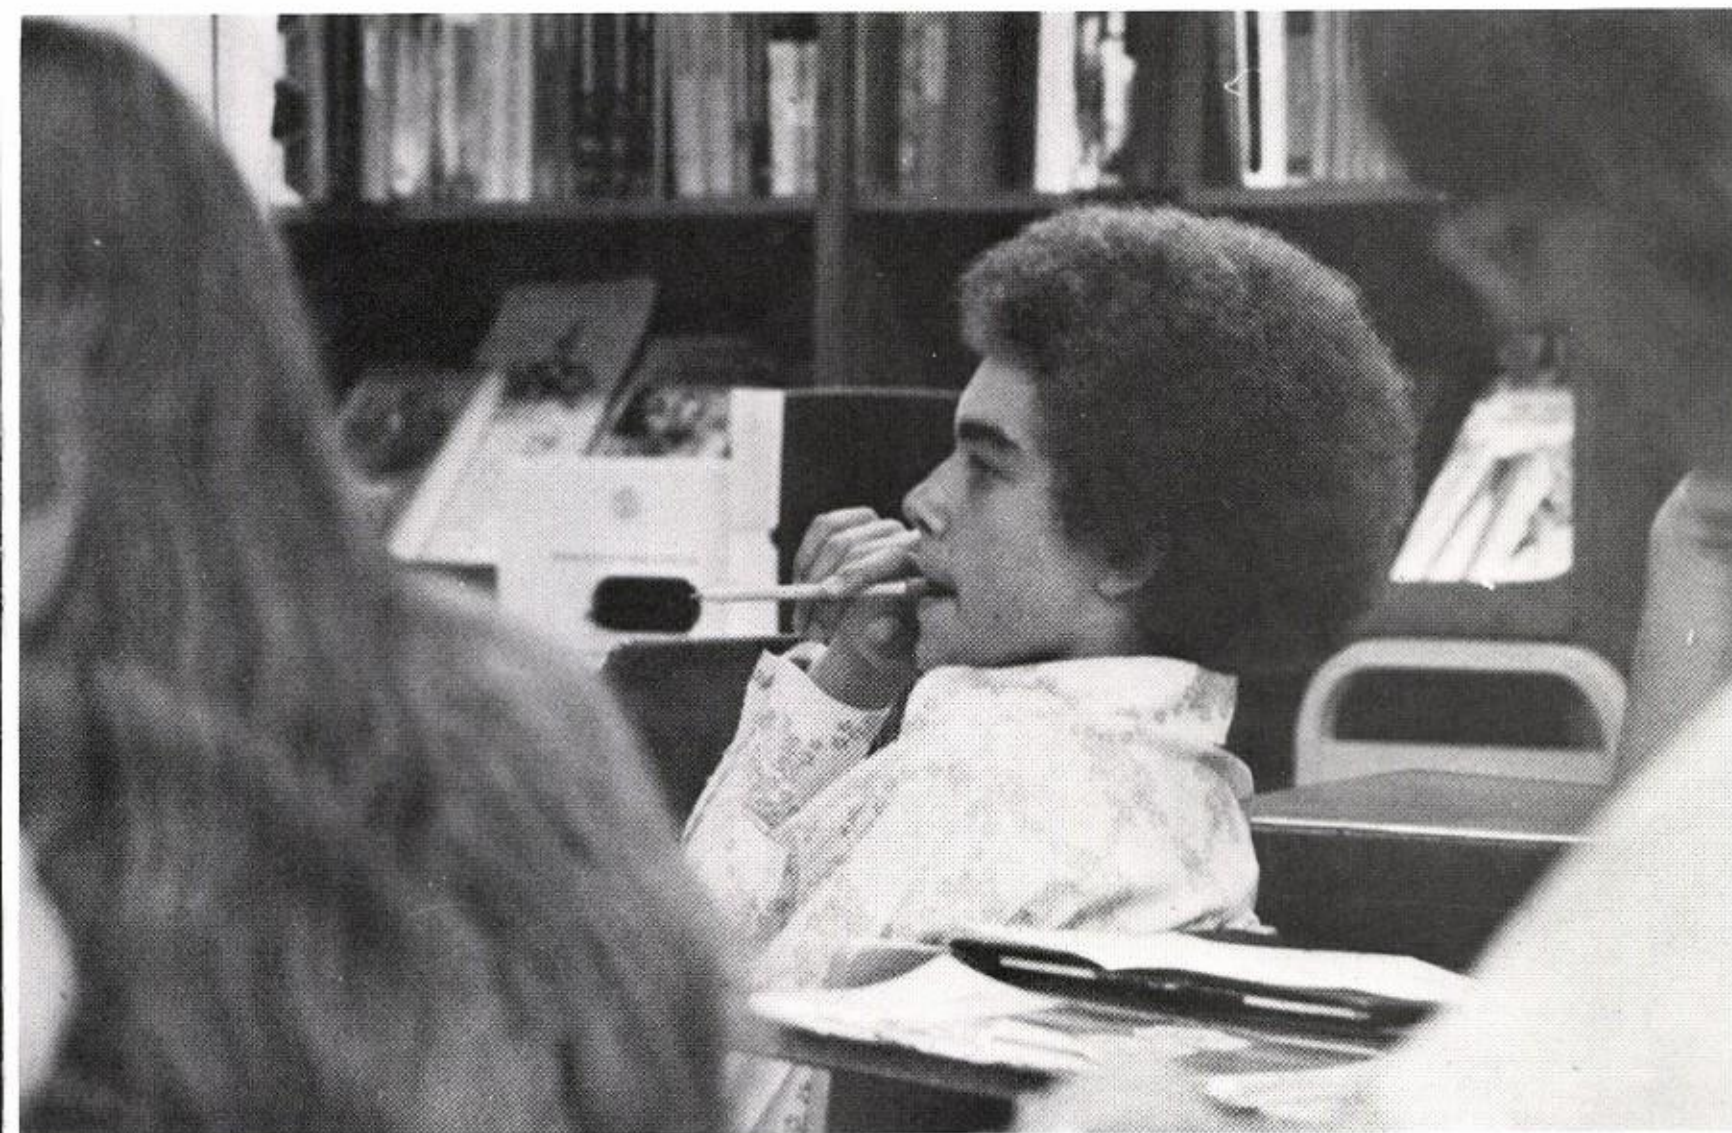

[a]

[c]

Students Explore the Physical World

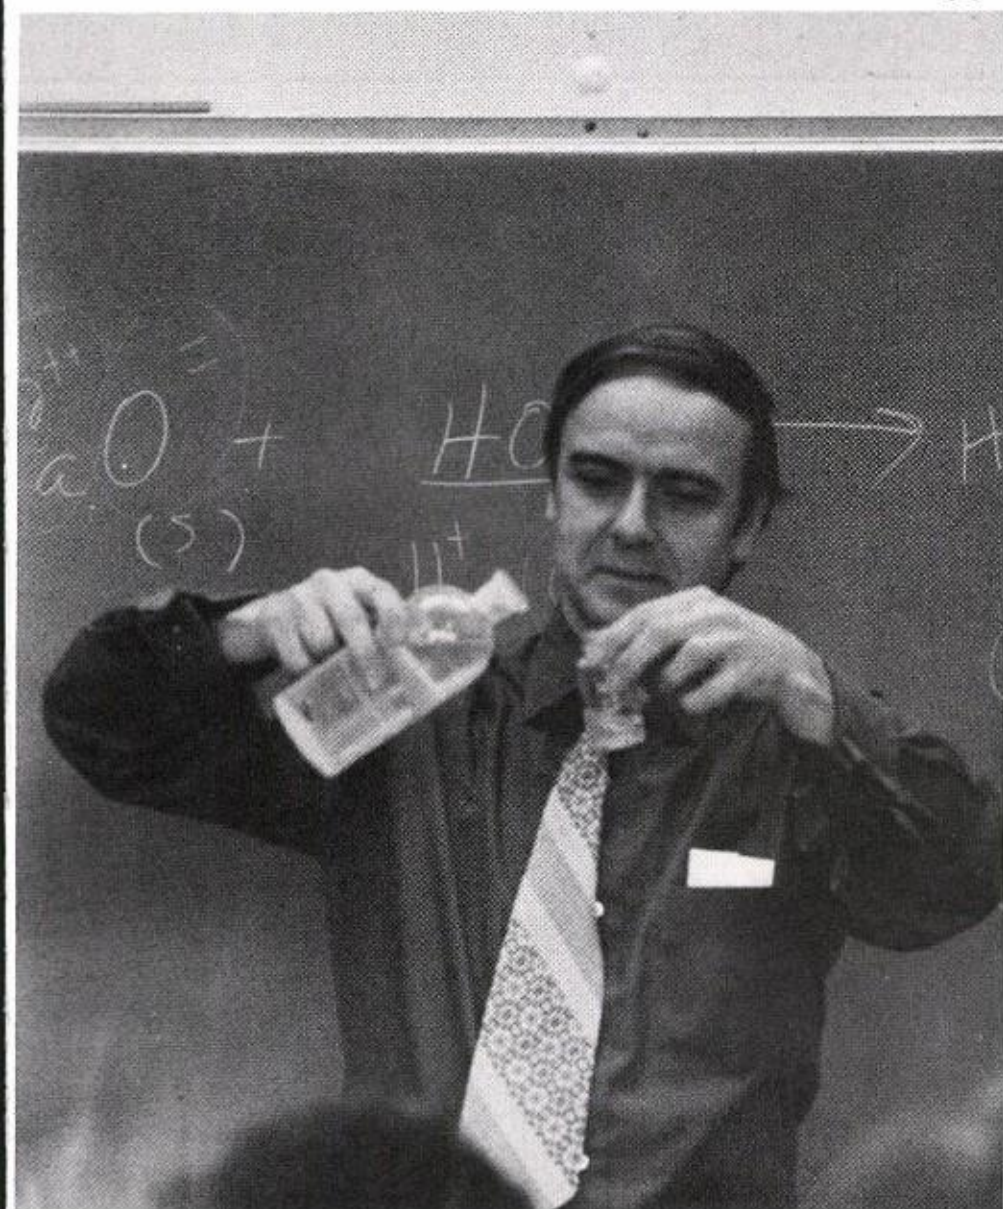

Ions, energy and molarity all fit together to become the concept of chemistry. Students are puzzled by chemical reactions taking place in test tubes. From the smallest atom to the powerful burning sun; all complete the wonder of life.

[b]

[c]

a) Paul Bergsma watches Mr. Sikkema perform an experiment. b) Mr. Sikkema — Chemistry, Refresher Math, Physics. c) Cal Hassevoort takes time out from Chemistry.

Precision and Accuracy Are Developed

[a]

[b]

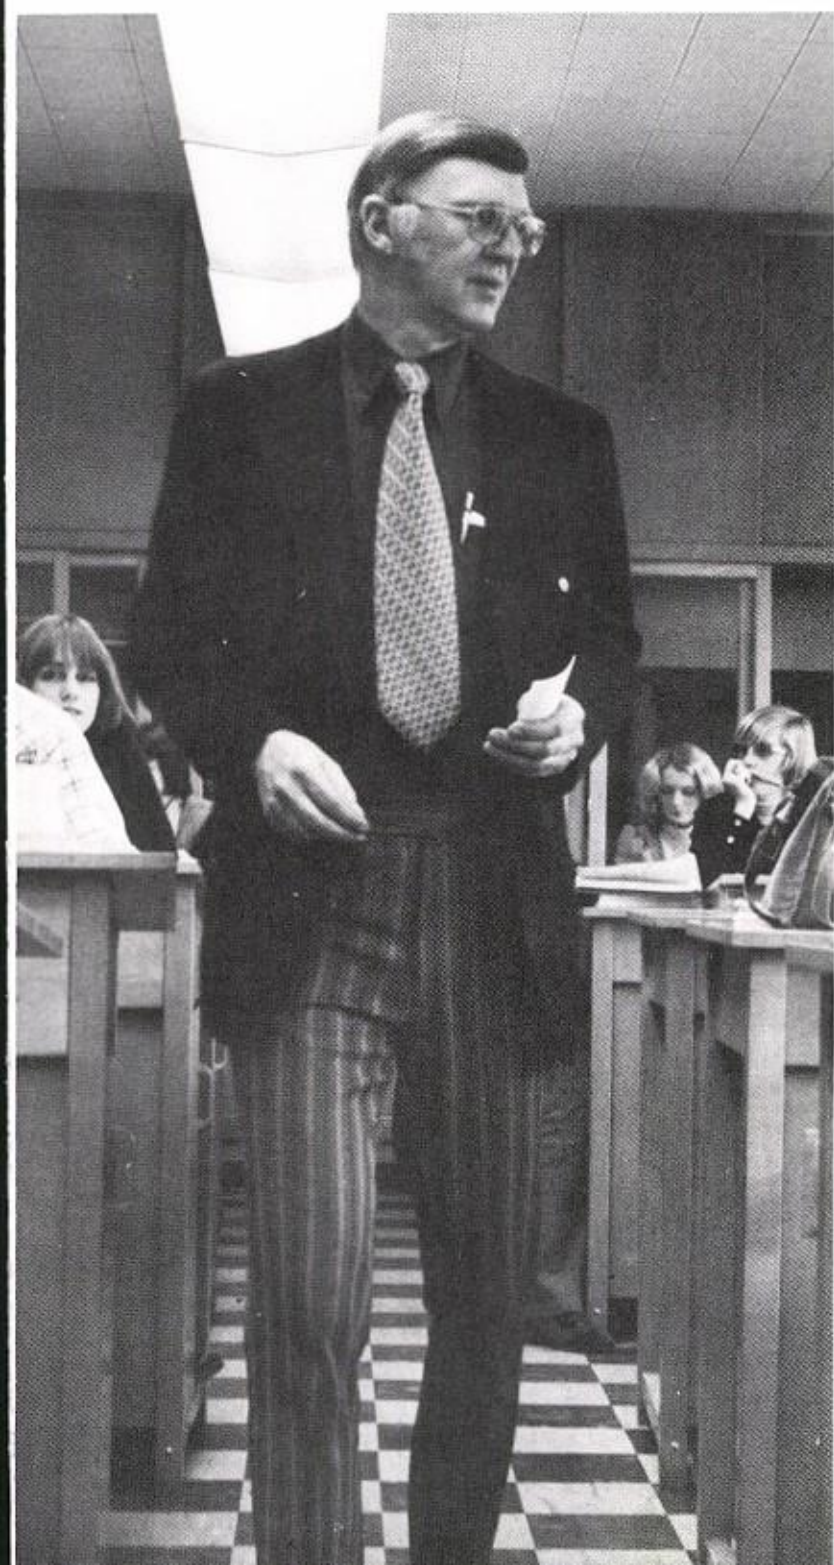

[c]

a) Mr. Aukeman — Industrial Arts. b) Mike Kleinjans uses the drill press in completing his project. c) Darle Ter Avest adjusts the hand grip. d) Mechanical Drawing teaches students precision. e) Mr. Johnson — Mechanical Drawing. f) Ed Velthouse develops his drawing with the aid of a straight edge.

[d]

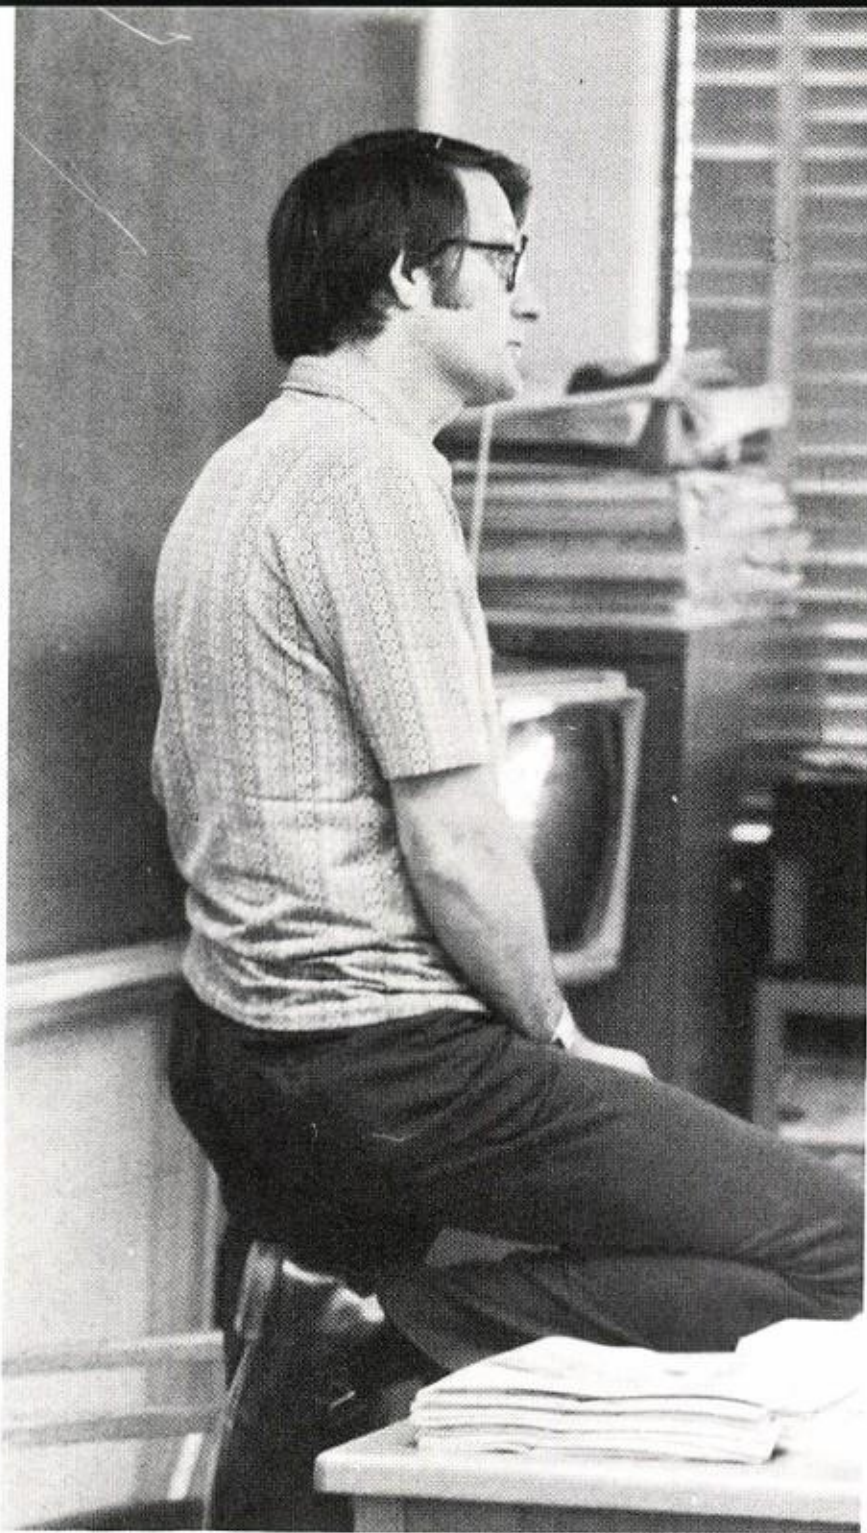

Women have begun their infiltration into mechanical drawing classes and no doubt Mr. Aukeman will soon discover females in his ranks of industrial artists. These two classes offer students the chance to use precision tools in the creation of useful as well as beautiful pieces of art.

History Brings Today Into Focus

Travelling back through time, history students try to relive the experiences of their ancestors. By way of several films, case study booklets, and newspaper articles they witnessed a meaningful part of their past and gained useful insight into the present.

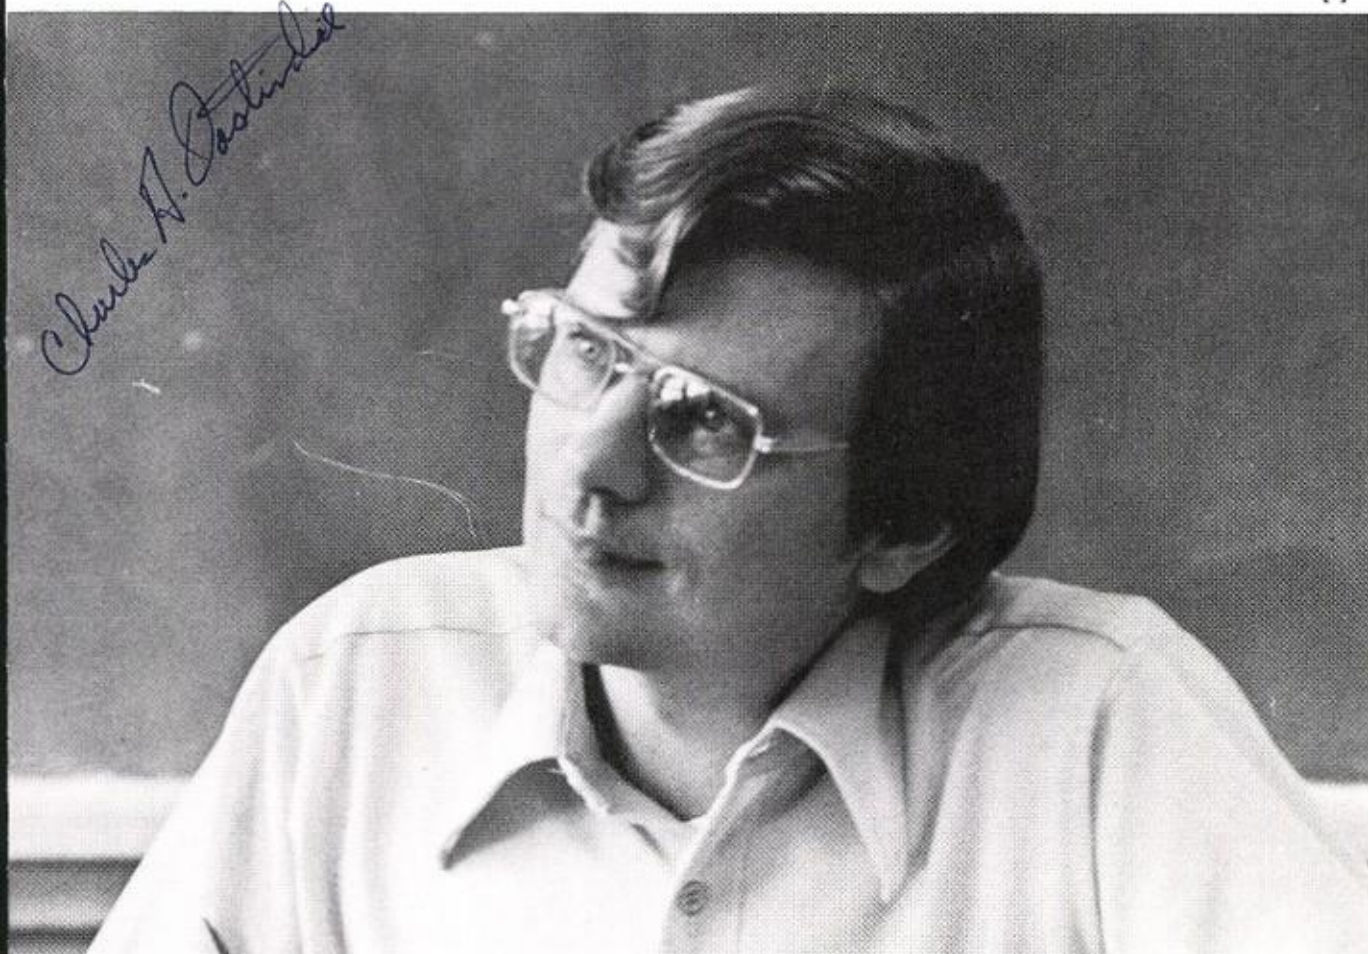

[d]

[e]

[f]

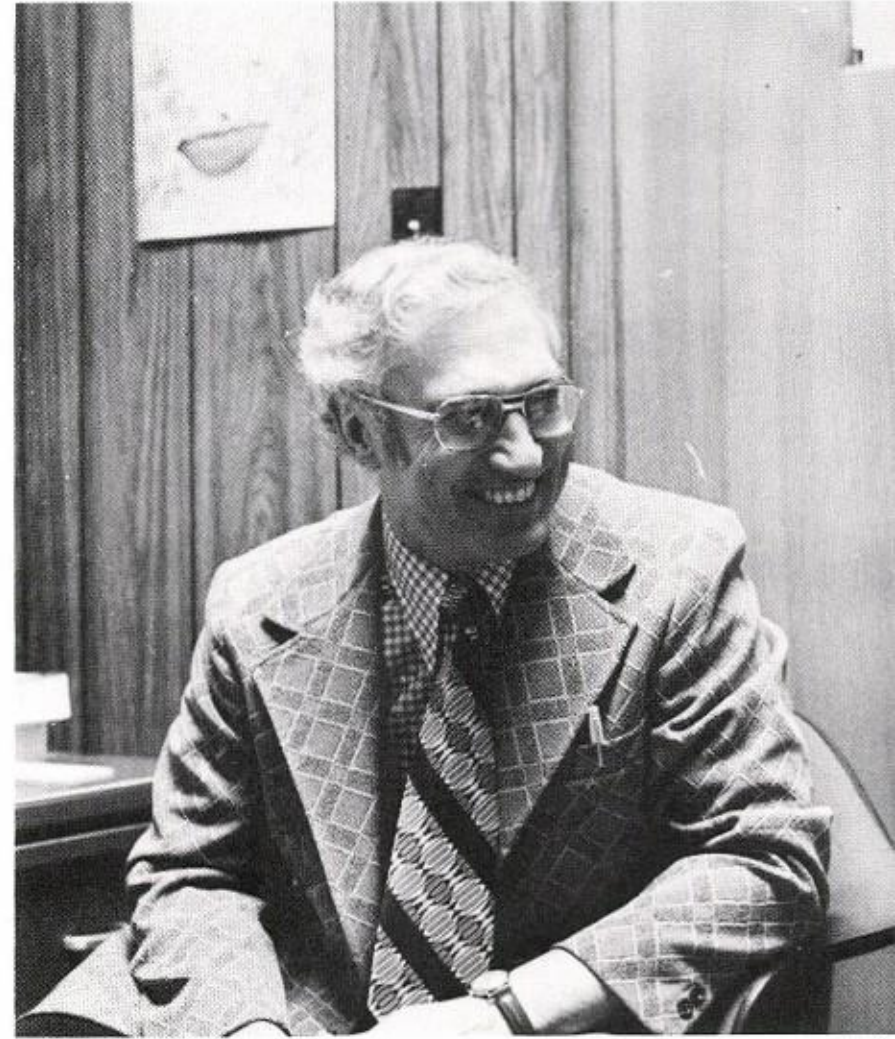

a) Mr. Klyn — History. b) Mike Kleinjans meditates. c) Mark Berkhof searches his memory for an answer. d) The Chicago Tribune keeps History students informed on current events. e) Cal Wolters studies diligently. f) Mr. Oostindie — History.

I'm O.K. — You're O.K.

Films, reading material, lively discussion, and lots of experiments taught members of the Psychology classes to more fully understand their personalities. But more important, they learned to honestly look at and accept themselves and others as being O.K.

[c]

[b]

a) Mr. De Witt: Psychology. b) Harry portrays the emotion of surprise. c) Deb Van Laar tries to visualize a picture. d) Government lecture lulls Marcia Nyenhuis to sleep. e) Sgt. Vroon provides a break in the routine. f) Miss Voss: Church History, Government, and English.

[f]

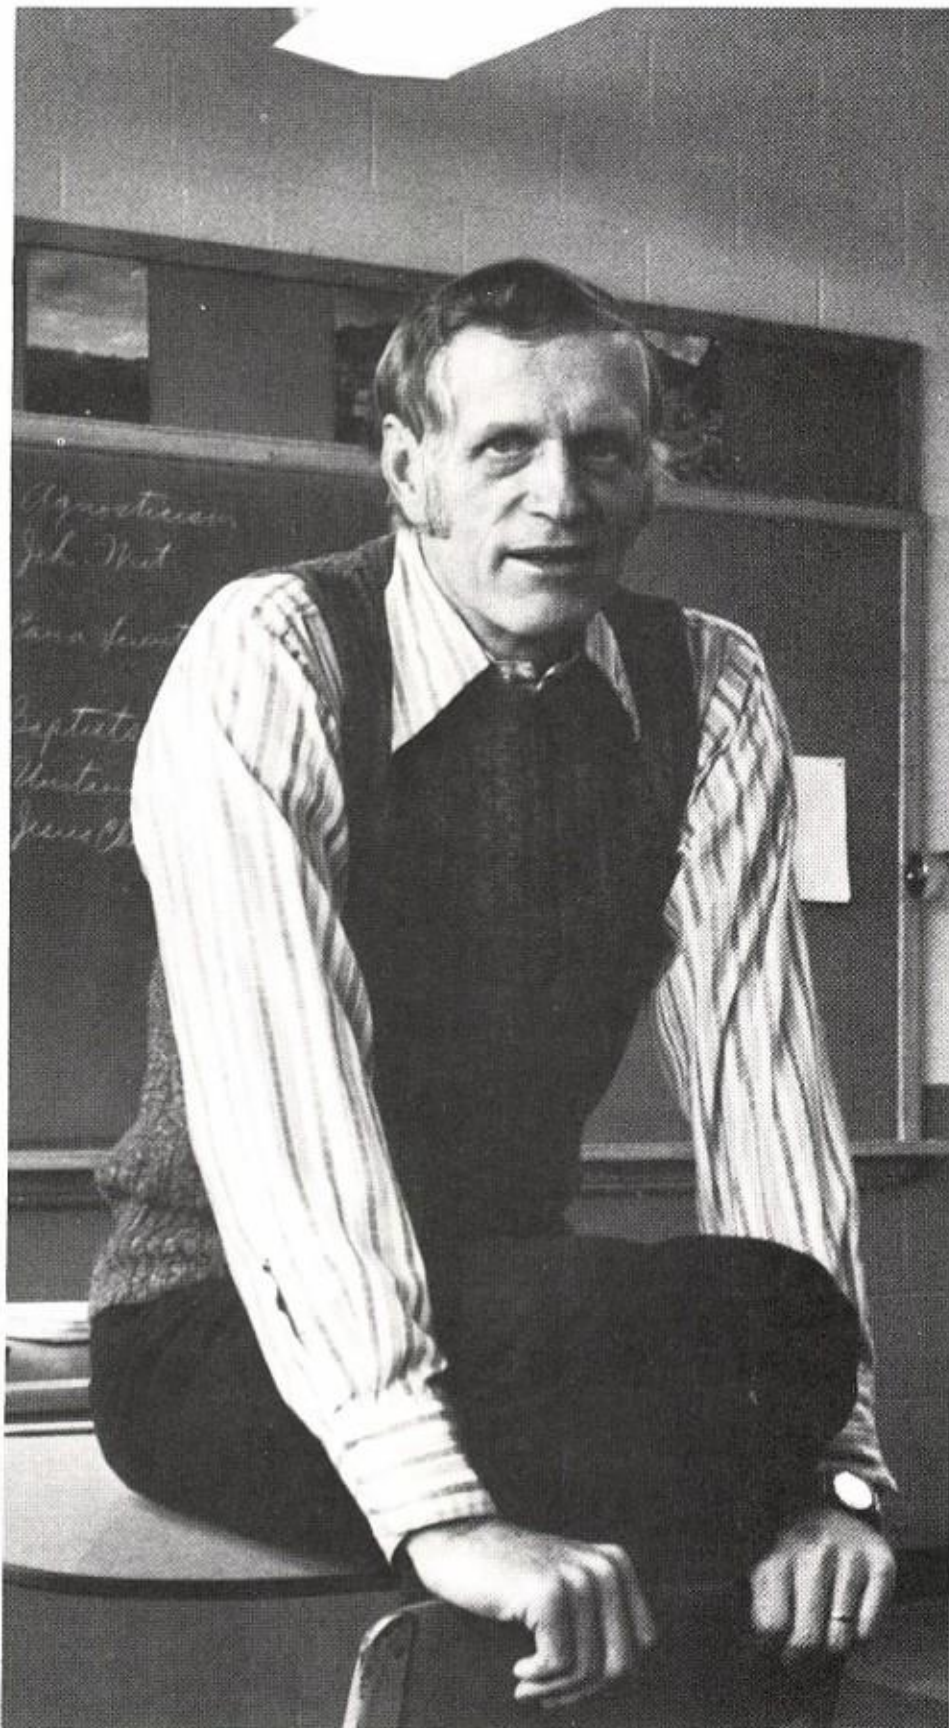

Future Voters . . .

learn their rights and responsibilities; they grasp the concepts of our constitution. Seniors learn by discussing TIME articles on subjects from inflation to the Shah of Iran. Special guests, such as Senator Byker, an FBI agent, and a narcotics cop, plant the seeds for growing American citizens.

Reformed Doctrine Is Basis for Studies

In studying the history of our church and placing our beliefs next to those of others we can more clearly examine our own beliefs and decide what is right and wrong for ourselves. The ambition of the religious program at Unity is to confront its students with their own beliefs before they are faced with the rest of the world.

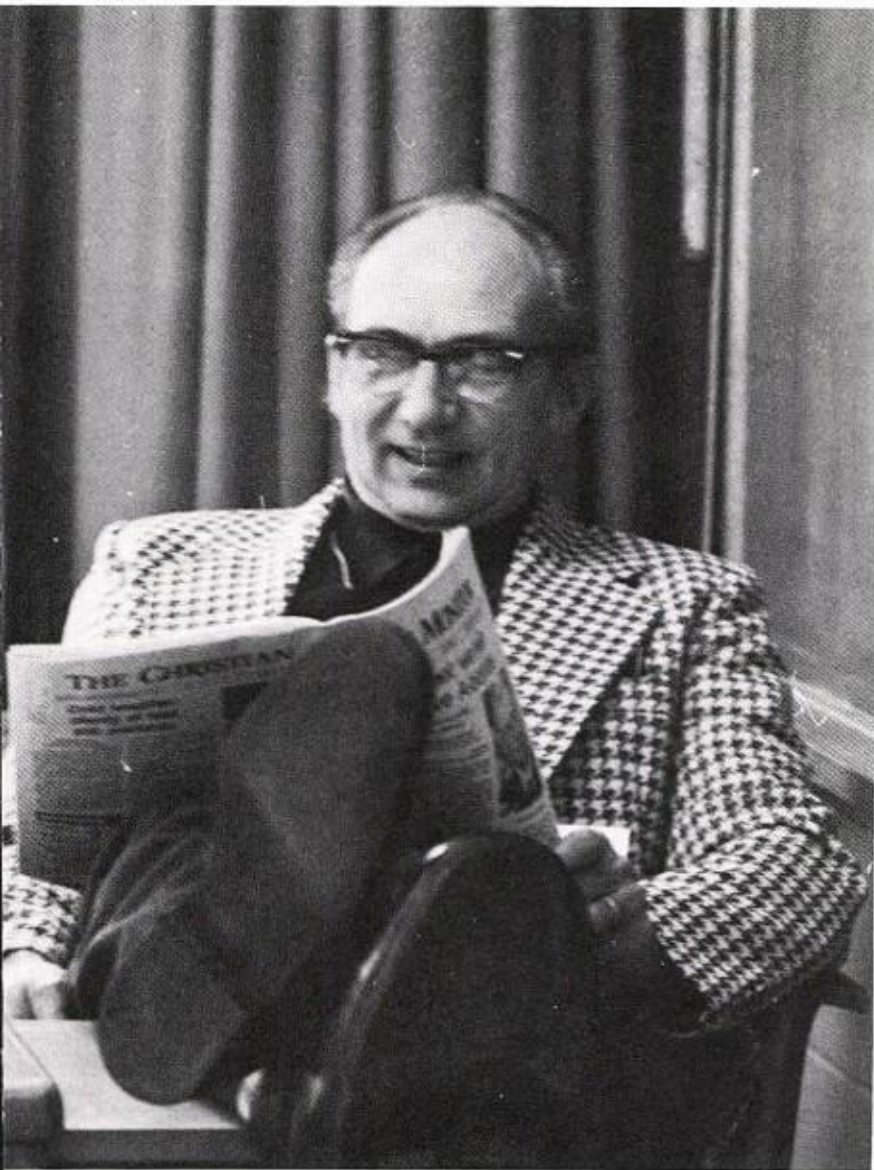

[a]

[b]

[c]

a) Dan Meyard reproves a classmate who is interrupting his concentration. b) Mr. Veenstra — Church History, Reformed Doctrine. c) Ken Bosscher applies himself to his homework. d) Rev. The Hand That Leads Us on

At 12:15 the intercom summons a long list of students, and today, John's name is included. Bewildered and afraid, he and the others fill the office. Possibly he skipped a class, failed to bring in an excuse, or has an urgent appointment with Mr. Vander Vliet. These incidents reveal a small, but necessary, part of Unity's administration.

[d]

[e]

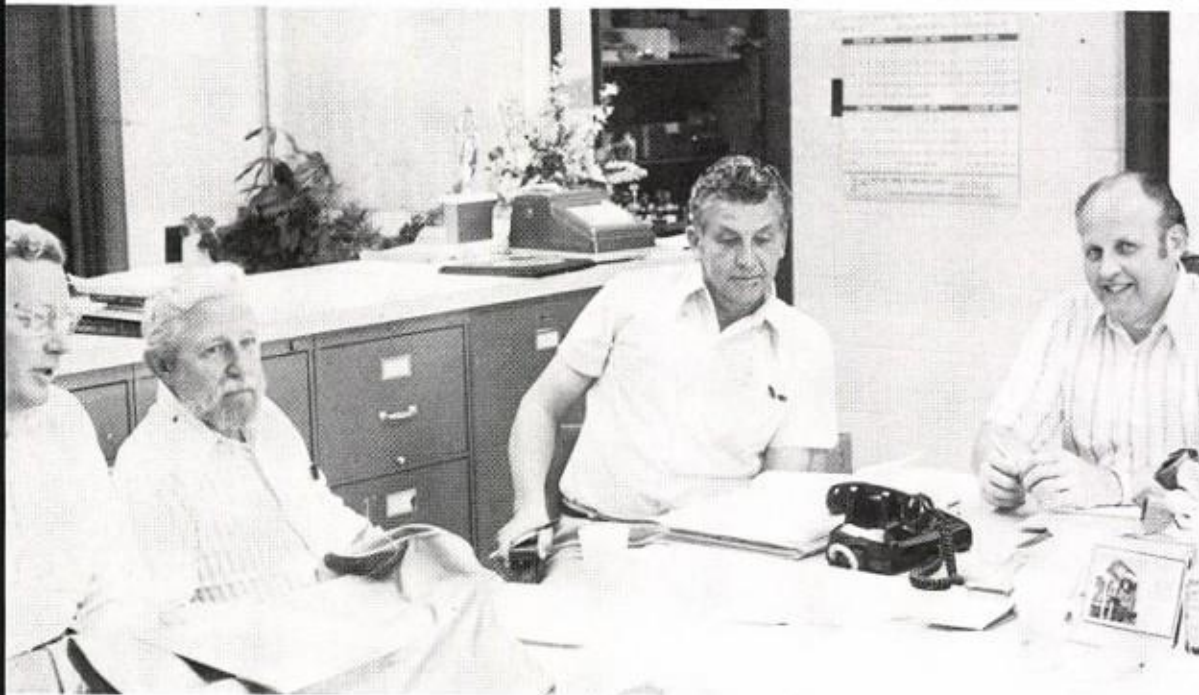

[f]

a) Mr. Vander Vliet — Principal. b) Mrs. Ponstein — bookkeeper. c) Mrs. Van Zalen — secretary. d) Miss Terri Porter — secretary. e) Mr. De Koning — Assistant Principal and Government. f) Mr. Vander Vliet confers in his private office.

Board and Unity Circle Work Behind the Scenes

There are several groups of people who work behind the scenes to keep the school in running condition. Among these are the men and women belonging to the Board, Unity Circle and Booster Clubs. They are involved in raising extra needed money and making vital decisions of school policy.

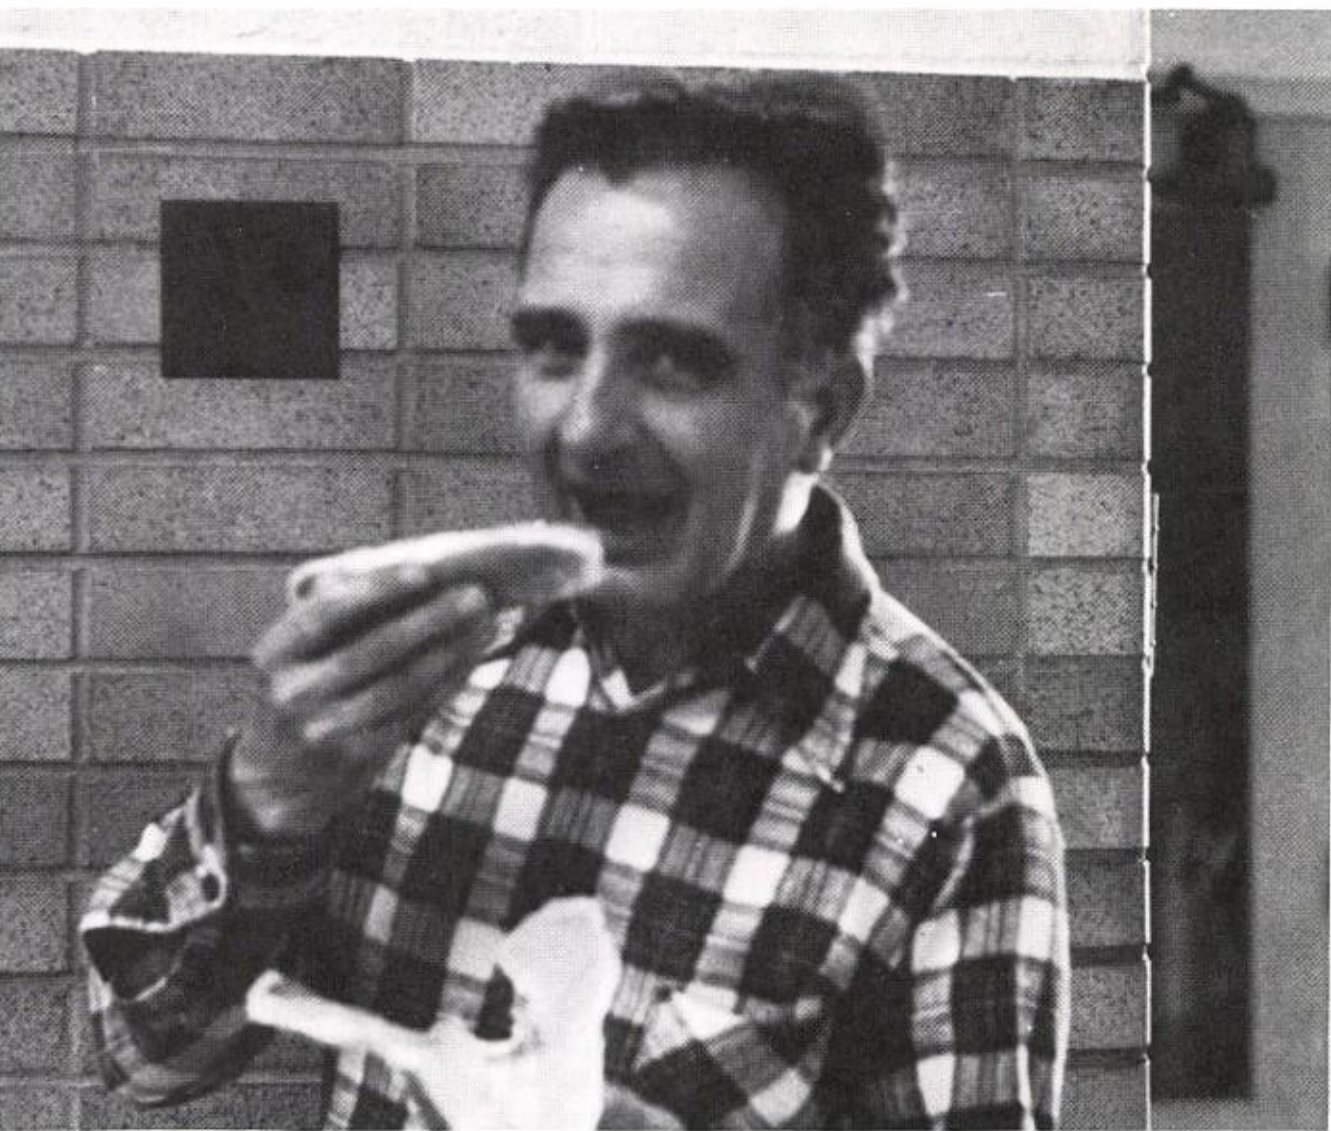

[b]

[c]

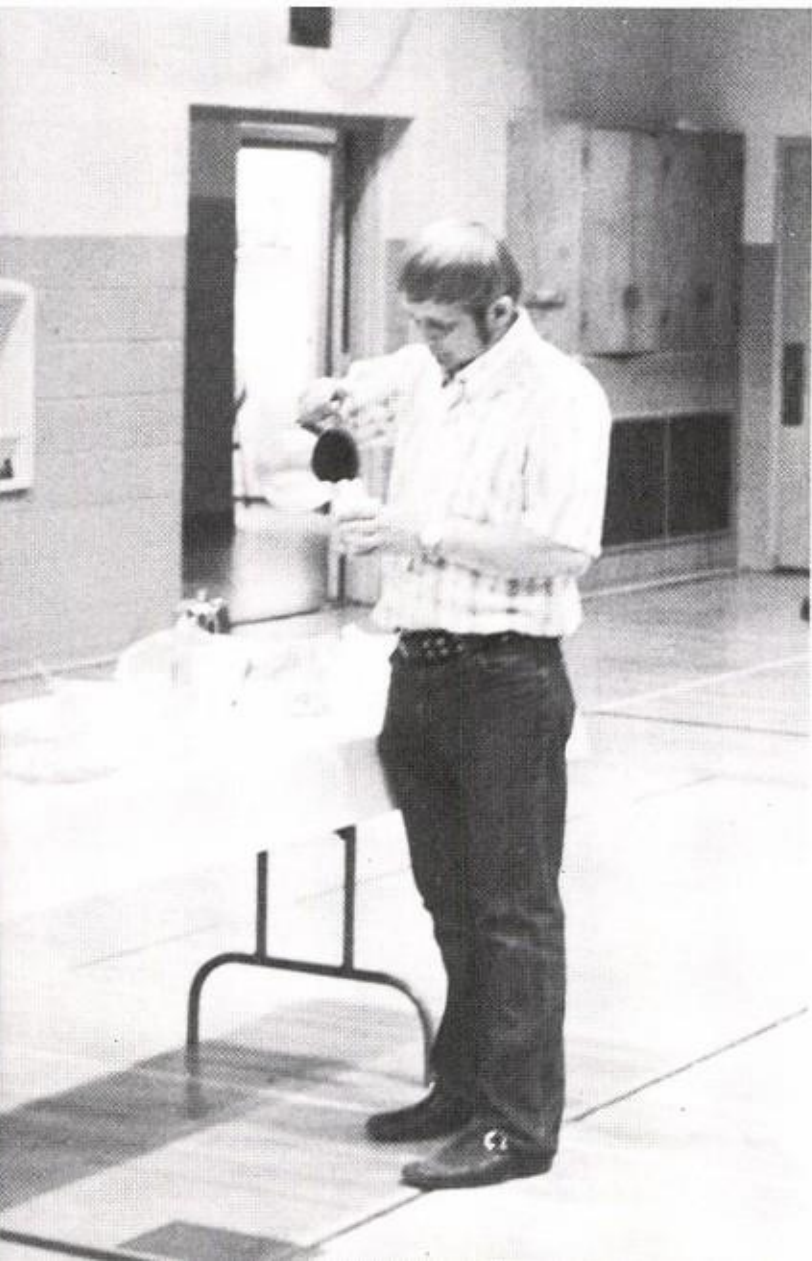

a) Unity Circle sponsors a fund raising supper. b) Financial committee of the board. c) Executive committee of the board. d) John Vander Helm — janitor. e) Delmar De Young — night janitor.

Great Job, S.C.!

Student Council members worked very hard at their job of helping and entertaining the students by sponsoring an outdoor concert, films, skating parties, a square dance, great homecoming activities, and a "Dating Game" with Calvin Christian. They also initiated a radio station, a program for Seniors to attend college, and changes in the counseling system. PULSE '75 throbbed with highlights of a busy and exciting year.

Unity's exchange student program is beginning to really develop. So far none of our own students have gone abroad for a whole year, but this year we had two visitors: Henrik Knudsen came for the whole year and stayed with Bob Prins and his family; Eloina Leal, a sophomore, stayed with Nancy Lubbinga and attended Unity for the second semester only. Both were great kids and welcome additions to our school.

The End Result Makes the Long Year of Work Worthwhile

The 1975 Silhouette was created behind the gym in a small room which contained everything and everyone a person might need. It took the constant effort of three usually hardworking editors and a lot of advice from higher places. There were times when nothing worked out. The pictures were the wrong shape or missing altogether and the copy came out sounding like it had gone through a shredding machine and only the red ink was visible. Then everything would finally fall together. The urge to quit was often strong, but we all hung in there until the end, glad that we had begun.

Skiers Take Advantage of a Good Year

On most snowy Mondays at 3:00 p.m., a yellow Unity school bus began to fill with such things as skis and eager skiers; destination: Cannonsburg. Once they arrived it was each to his own, whether they were flying down the T-bar, falling on the bunny hill or keeping the lodge seats warm. The large group of kids belonging to ski club had a great time getting it all together in 1974 and '75.

[d]

[e]

Pep Club Helps Rouse Spirit

The girls in Pep Club made themselves known through the drill team in their appearances during half time of our home basketball games. Their most memorable routine was done to the song "Rock Around the Clock." Each girl was dressed as a little person with a big head and each wearing a Unity jacket.

Celebration '75 Promotes the Fine Arts

A series of original skits on creativity initiated Celebration '75 and a week full of activity. An afternoon of voluntary seminars featuring guest artists, a student art exhibit, and two concerts given by the Interlochen Symphony Orchestra highlighted the week. Fine Arts Week challenged students to take a closer look into the arts, and for those that did it proved worthwhile.

[a]

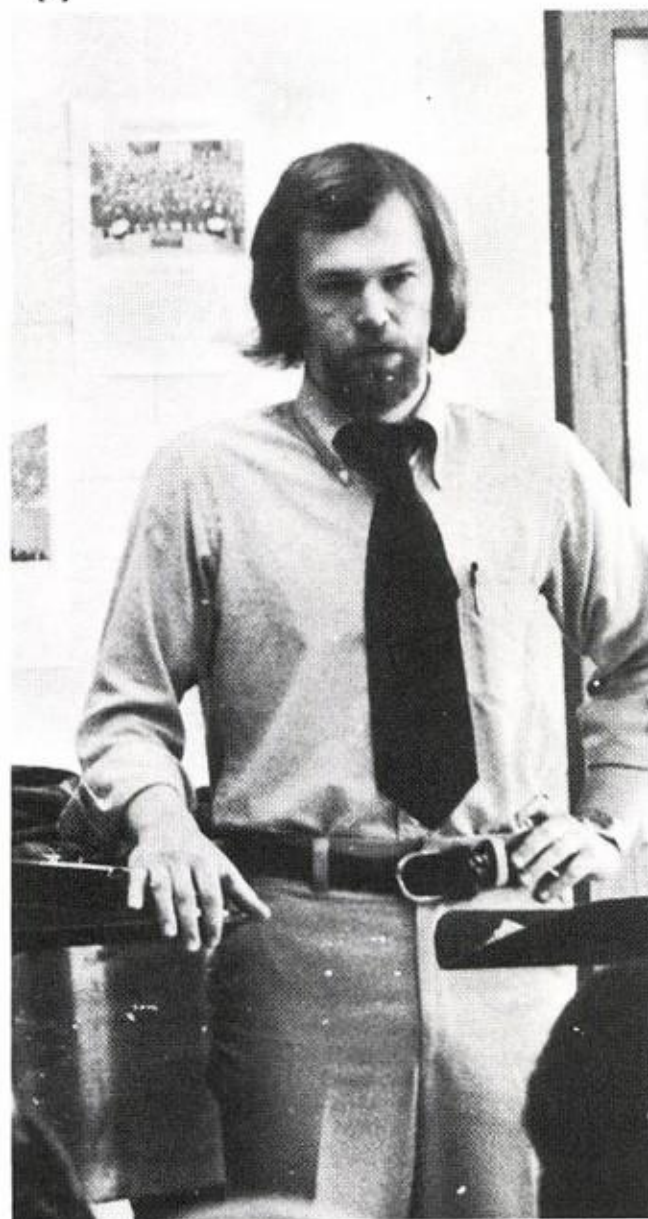

a) Marie Post reads her own poetry. b) The song, "Cat's in the Cradle," is used by the drama club to show how creativity is stifled. c) Bruce Kerkowski checks the work of Brian Elling during an art seminar. d) The voice of Boyd Mackus entertains students during one of the seminars.

Hours of Work Pay Off in "The Imaginary Invalid"

Tryouts and reading of parts brought many nervous and undecided moments for directors and aspiring actors. As the cast was chosen, hours of memorization, practice, and time spent on preparing the set, costumes, lighting and more all went into the production. When the time was at hand and everything was ready, the play, "The Imaginary Invalid" proved worthwhile of the time it took.

Winning Isn't Everything

If winning the game is the only important feature of basketball, then Unity's J.V. team was unsuccessful. Fortunately, there is much more. While on the team, the guys not only got some experience in playing ball, but they also learned valuable lessons in teamwork, sportsmanship, and in dealing with other people.

Happiness Is a 19-5 Record

An evenly balanced team with an impenetrable last quarter press was the key to the success of the boy's Varsity basketball team as it completed the season with nineteen wins and five losses. Since the difference in scores was seldom more than five points, each game seemed to be a new high in excitement. District tournaments set the team off with three tough rivals; Jenison, Hudsonville, and Zeeland, but when it was over, the guys walked off with a district trophy and a position in the regionals against Muskegon Heights. The season ended with a tough loss to the Heights.

Team Has Exciting Season

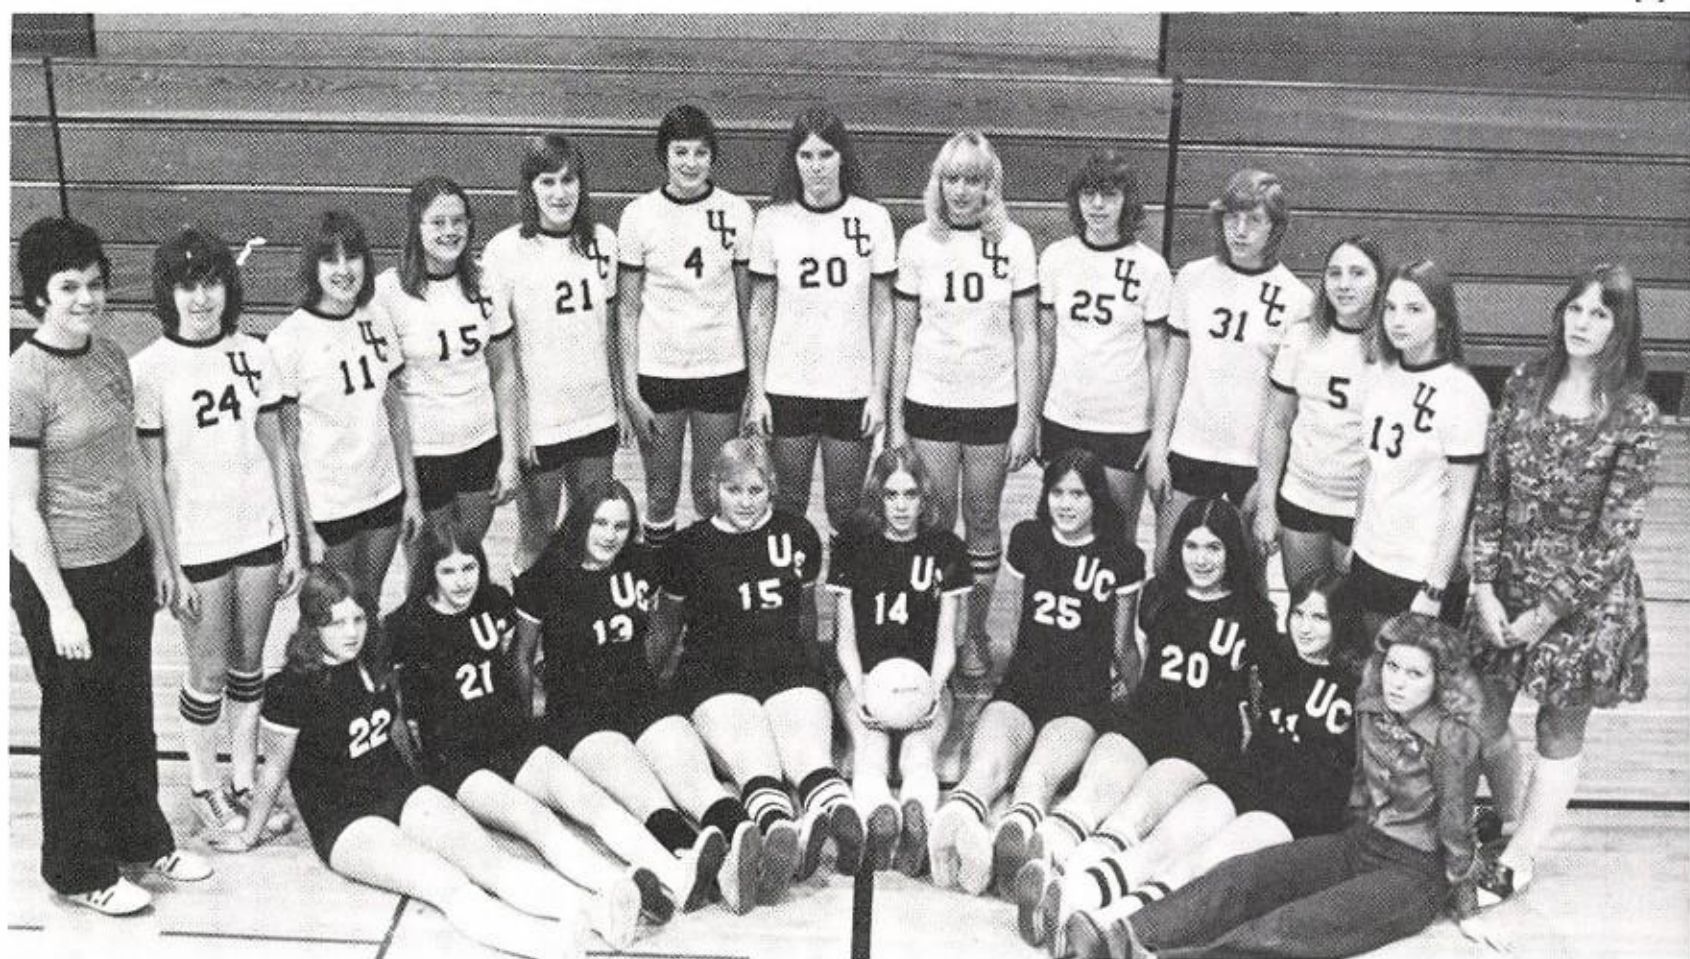

Although their record doesn't indicate that they had an excellent season, the Volleyball team did a good job. In both of their games against the first place team from Calvin Christian they held them into overtime before losing. The last game against Holland Christian for the second place title also proved to be a really exciting game. In all, the girls played well and had a great time.

Spirit of Friendship Thrives at Double-J Ranch

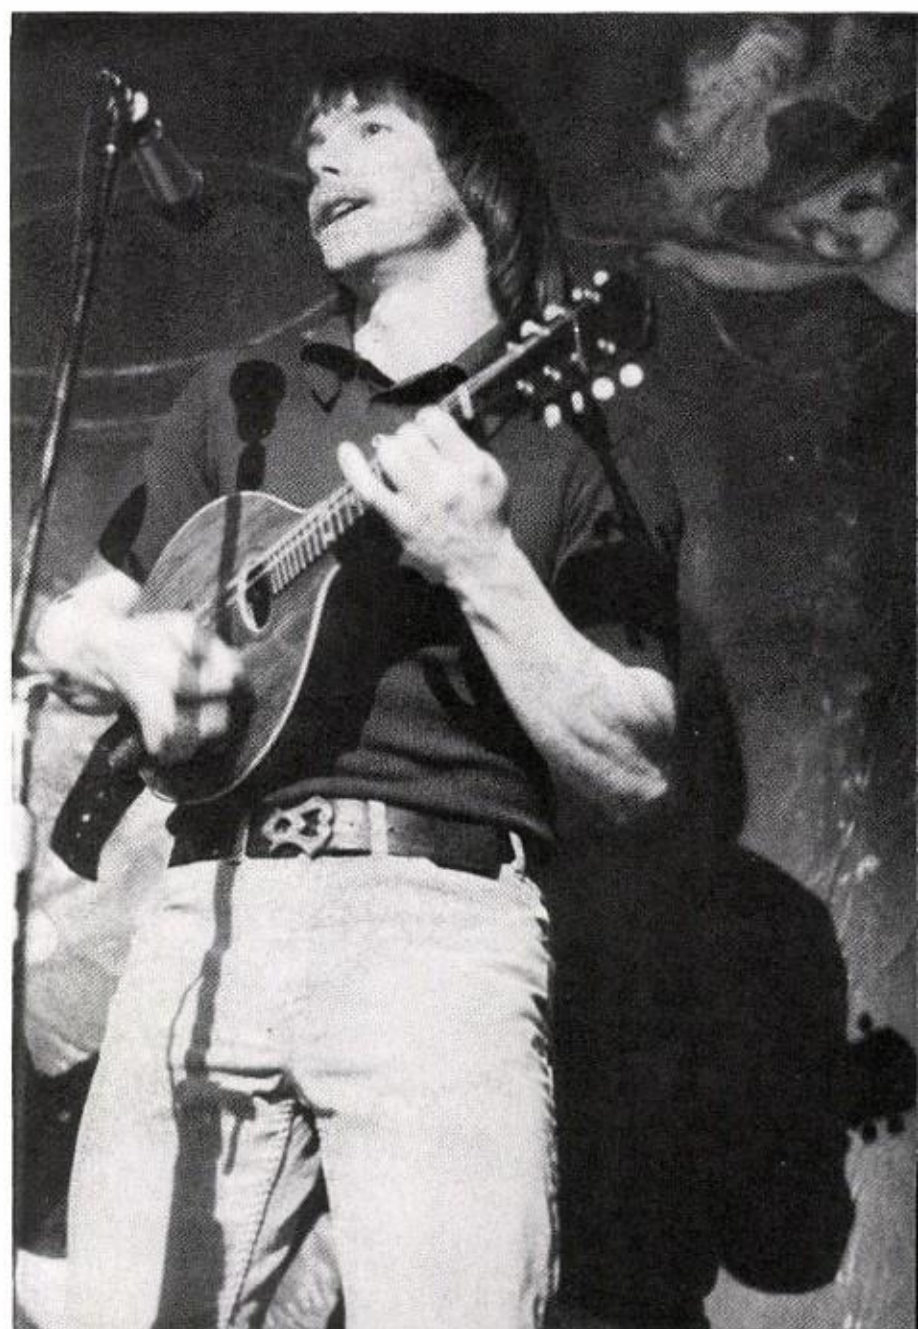

On a cloudy May morning two busloads of eager seniors arrived at the Double J Ranch. Once the ground rules were put down, everyone split up to go horseback riding, swimming, or do just about anything they wanted. At night there was entertainment by the staff of the ranch and singing by a great Hootenanny group. As the buses were ready to leave and all had said goodbye, the director thanked the Unity group for coming and added that it was the best group he ever had.

The Beginning of the End

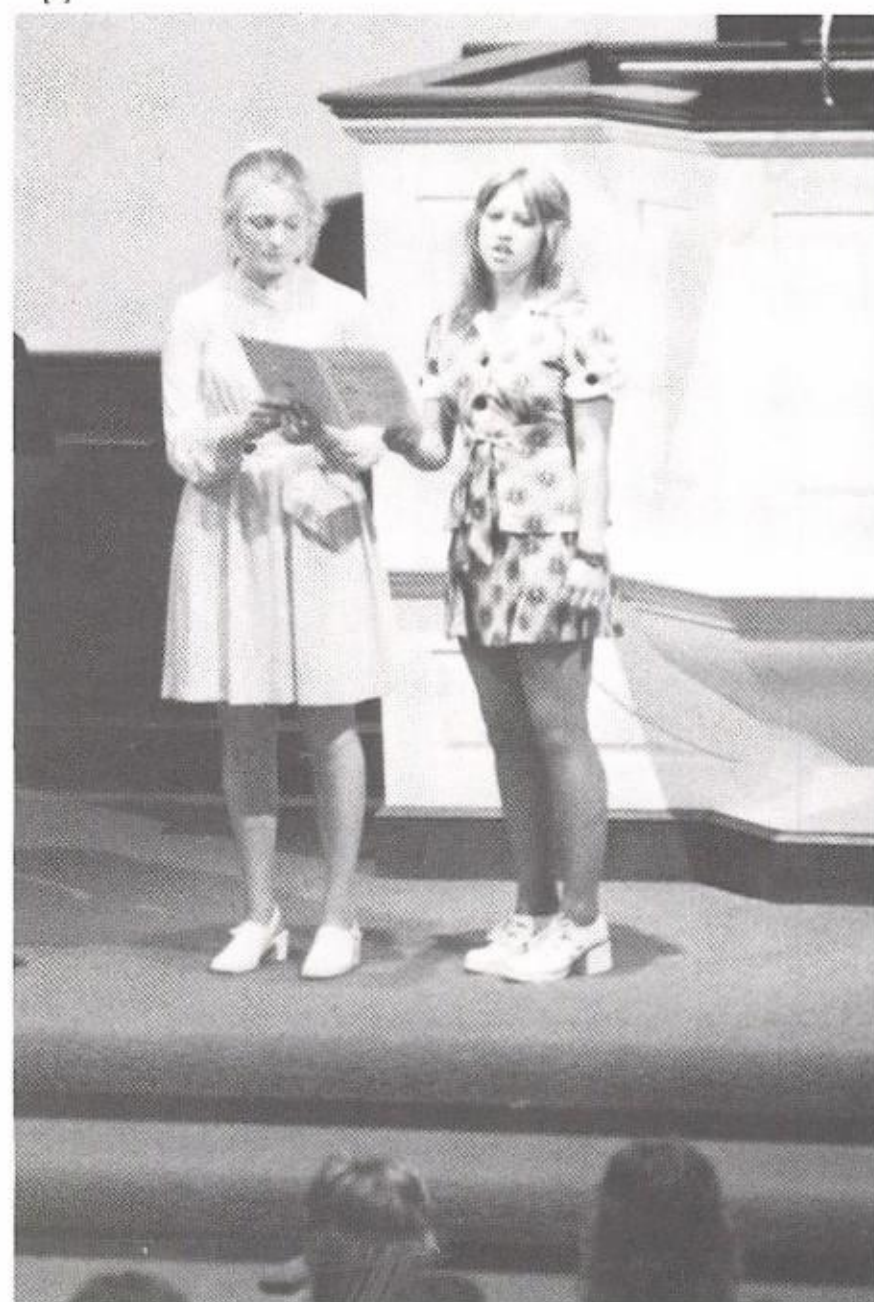

The beginning of the end had arrived as seniors and their parents gradually arrived at Ridgewood Church. Baccalaureate was just one last admonition before entering the world and an ever stronger reminder that the end was very close.

[g]

a) The speaker, Dr. Clifford Christians, converses with Unity faculty members. b) Seniors listen attentively to the Baccalaureate message. c) Pat Persenaire and Pat Key entertain with a vocal duet. d) The Boice family meets Mr. Oostendie. e) Gayla Hibma plays a solo on her oboe. f) Karen Lucas introduces her mother to Mr. Brouwer. g) Graduating seniors file into Baccalaureate Service.

Graduation Brings an End to It All

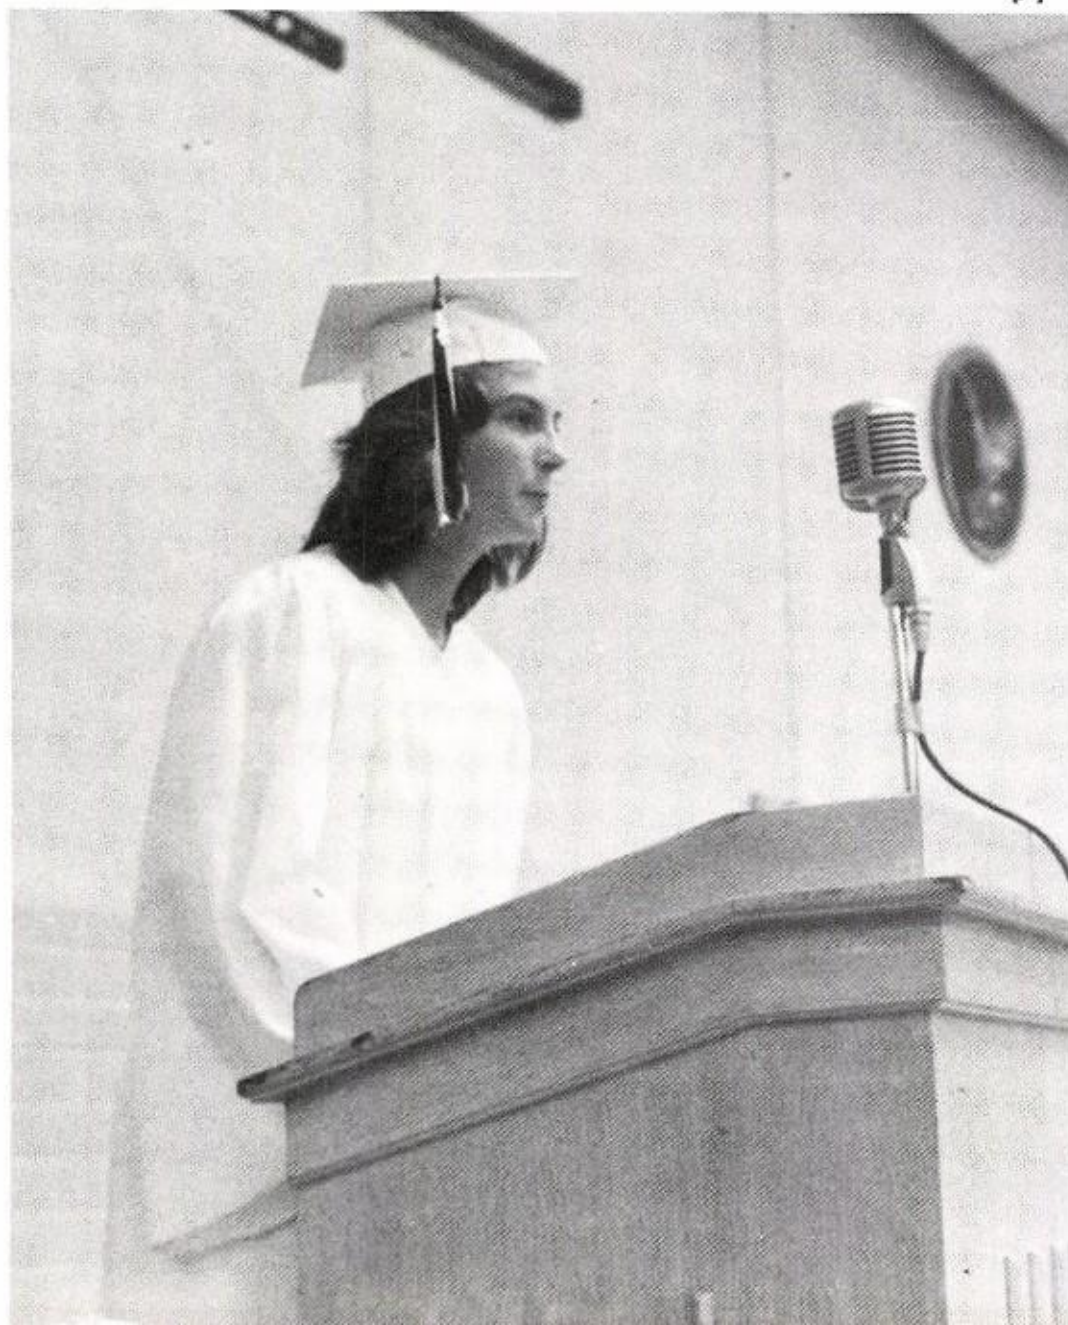

The last diploma has been handed out and there is a moment where everyone settles down. Then the awaited words come from the mouth of Mr. Vander Vliet, "I now present to you the class of 1975." Graduation caps fly and cheers ring through the gym as the graduated class rejoices. Afterwards there are a few tears and sad partings as seniors say goodbye to Unity forever.

Best Wishes to our Graduates

© SCW, INC

We're proud of our new generation of Graduates . . .
but where will they be tomorrow?

Right now, it's graduation time, time for celebrations, for parties and for gifts . . . but tomorrow, after all the honors have been bestowed, our grads will be looking to the future. Some will choose to continue their education, others will enter the business world now. Sooner or later, all will decide where they can best begin and build their careers. All of us have a definite interest in the future of these young people, and we'll all benefit if graduates find opportunities here. We invite you to join in our efforts to make our community a good place to live, a good place to shop, a good place to work, a good place to worship, and a good place to raise a family.

good to see ya again.
We'll have to get together and do something too, OK? After we are married too, I can't believe it, see each other every day, tell each other almost everything, problems, etc.
Now, we're both getting married and everything,
well, you just take care of both you & Ray.
I really miss those days at school, (the seeing of friends part) and guess we just take advantage of those days and don't realize it till we are out and the days are gone.
Love your friend
Deb
